

Woman fires pistol shot at President

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A grey-haired middle-aged mother standing in a crowd fired a pistol shot at President Ford Monday but missed before a disabled ex-Marine knocked the gun down and police wrestled her to the ground. The President was unharmed.

A cab driver was slightly wounded by the bullet.

The frizzy-haired suspect, identified as Sarah Jane Moore, 45, had been picked up by police only Sunday on an illegal hand gun charge and later was questioned by Secret Service agents as a possible threat to the President, but was released Sunday night. A gun she carried at that time was confiscated, but the Secret Service "assessed that she was not of sufficient protective interest to warrant surveillance during the President's visit."

The FBI said Miss Moore after her arrest admitted firing the shot. She bought the revolver earlier Monday, the FBI said, and she was "surprised that she had so much time" to shoot after the President left the hotel.

Miss Moore, also known as "Sarah Jane Aalberg," is a white woman well known in San Francisco area radical circles who claims to have been an FBI informant up to a year ago. She is the mother of a 9-year-old boy, has written articles for the underground newspaper "Berkeley Barb," and was one of the first volunteers in the million-dollar "People in Need" program set up by Patricia Hearst's parents to try to win her release shortly after she was kidnapped by the Symbionese Liberation Army.

It was the second time in 17 days that a woman tried to assassinate President Ford in California.

The shot was fired from 35-40 feet away as Ford waved to a crowd of 3,000 en route to his limousine outside the St. Francis Hotel. Secret Service agents shoved the President to his hands and knees then hustled him into the car, which sped immediately to San Francisco International Airport 15 miles away. The President was airborne for Washington 17 minutes after the 3:30 p.m. PDT incident.

Miss Moore, who was dressed in men's clothing when the shot was fired, was arraigned Monday night on a federal charge of attempting to assassinate the President and held on $500,000 bail. U.S. Attorney James Browning said it was believed she acted alone, although agents were investigating where she got the gun.

The man who may have saved the President's life was Oliver Sipple, 33, San Francisco, an ex-Marine on 100 per cent disability.

San Francisco Police Inspector Gary Lemos said Sipple's quick action "probably prevented a second shot from being fired." Police said there were still five live rounds left in the .38 caliber Smith and Wesson revolver.

"I was five or seven feet away from the suspect," said police officer Tim Heltrich. "I looked to my left and saw her raise her arm holding the gun and I saw her fire a round. Then I saw Sipple's hand reach out and push her hand down. I grabbed the cylinder of the gun, took it away."

"I saw a puff of smoke and people started screaming around me," said UPI reporter Gordon Joseloff. "Police linked their arms together to hold back the crowd. Some of them drew their guns near where the shot apparently was fired.

"As police hustled the suspect across the street, they barely escaped being hit by the last car of the motorcade which sped away with police escort and sirens."

Charles Miles, 24, Milwaukee, Wis., said that immediately after the gunshot, "the Secret Service smothered him (the President). One Secret Service man almost fell off the back of the car as it sped off."

A Secret Service agent next to Ford when the shot rang out said later that the President was speechless when the incident occurred. The large crowd, on the other hand, screamed and gasped in shock as bystanders realized what had happened.

The ricocheting bullet, nearly spent, struck John M. Ludwig, 46, a cab driver, in the groin area. He was treated for a minor wound and released.

At San Francisco airport before the President departed for Washington, he insisted on shaking the hands of about 20 San Francisco police officers in his escort and commented to them: "The weather is nice."

Later, aboard Air Force One Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen said the President's mood was "in a word — relaxed."

Mrs. Ford, who had been in Monterey and learned of the assassination attempt only after she reached Air Force One just after her husband, exclaimed, "Thank God she was a poor shot."

Ford did not approach reporters awaiting him at Andrews AFB.

In a broadcast statement later at the White House, Ford said he would not fail the expectations of the American people for "a dialogue between them, their president and other public officials."

"If we cannot have that opportunity of talking with one another, something has gone wrong in our society," Ford said. "Under no circumstances will I, and I hope no others, capitulate to those that want to undercut what's all good in America."

Suspect in Ford shooting known as potential threat

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sarah Moore, the woman seized in the attempted shooting of President Ford, was a volunteer worker for the "People In Need" food giveaway program in the abortive 1974 attempt to "ransom" Patty Hearst.

A. Ludlow Kramer, coordinator of the PIN program, said Miss Moore came in "on the second day as one of the first to offer assistance. Kramer said she told him that "God had sent her to help."

Kramer said she was fired near the end of the project.

"She wanted to stay on and run things but we didn't think she was good enough," he said.

"When she was fired, she was very vocal about it and ranted and raved around the office for about an hour or so."

San Francisco police said they "understood" she was also a member of the United Prisoners Union whose revolutionary leader, Wilbert "Pop-eye" Jackson, was shot to death in gangland style earlier this year.

John Edwards, a staff member of the United Prisoners Union, denied she was a member of the group. He said he does not personally know her but has seen her at various "rallies and meetings."

The official police report said she was also known as Sara Jane Aalberg. She was listed as 5 feet, 6 inches, 130 pounds, short blonde hair, born May 21, 1930.

Gun shot sours good trip

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Gerald Ford had just wound up an astonishingly busy three days in California and was in high spirits as he prepared to head home.

His final chore had been a half-hour interview with television station KPXI and, as he took the elevator down from the fifth floor of the St. Francis Hotel, he remarked to presidential aide Donald Rumsfeld that he thought it had gone well.

The President stepped out into the sunshine and brisk autumn air onto Polk Street where a crowd of about 3,000 was gathered in Union Square. The crowd cheered when Ford appeared and he gave them a hearty wave and a big grin.

He paused to greet some of the well wishers, calling out: "Hi, how are you?" Then as he started toward his black limousine there was a loud report like a car backfiring.

Richard Krohn, a San Francisco trade mark consultant, said he was standing about 40 feet away. Krohn said he saw a puff of smoke come out of the crowd across the street.

At the sound of the shot, Krohn said, Ford "appeared to be stunned."

People began screaming. San Francisco police linked their arms together to hold back the crowd. Some of them drew guns near where the shot apparently was fired.

police officers who picked Miss Moore up Sunday.

"We got information on a tip that there would be a car with a woman in it who had a gun in her purse," he said.

"We went to the area and staked ourselves out. The car showed up and James Balovich and I moved up on the vehicle in separate cars. Officer Balovich confronted her as she was on the sidewalk and he asked her: 'Do you have a gun in the purse?'"

"She said 'yes,' Balovich said 'hand me the purse.' She handed it to him and there was a 44 in there. The shells were not in the gun but in her purse alongside the gun."

Law proposed to increase Pennsylvania's gas tax

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Shapp administration legislation that would increase the state's gasoline tax by two cents a gallon and double registration and driver's license fees was introduced in the House Monday.

The bills, designed to give the Transportation Department more money for highway maintenance, would also reduce required safety inspections from twice to once a year and eliminate annual license plate stickers.

Rep. Joseph Bonetto, D-Allegheny, unveiled details of the bills at a meeting of the House Transportation Committee, which he chairs.

"You're going to have to use your own consciences on these bills," Bonetto told the committee members. "If your constituents can stand running over potholes, so can mine."

The bill would:

- Increase the state tax on gasoline and diesel fuel of from 9 cents a gallon to 11 cents a gallon effective Nov. 1. There is also a 4 cents a gallon federal tax.

- Increase the amount of money local governments receive from the liquid fuels taxes from $85 to $105 million per year.
- Replace the current $14 registration fee with a system based on weights. Fees would range from $18 for vehicles weighing 3,200 pounds or less to $36 for vehicles weighing more than 4,200 pounds.

Bonetto said the committee would also consider a flat $24 registration fee or a weight system with fees ranging from $20 to $32. A flat fee could take effect on Jan. 1, 1975 but one based on weight could not take effect until Jan. 1, 1977, he said.

- Increase the driver's license fee from the current $2 per year to $4 per year.
- Require safety inspections once a year instead of twice.
- Eliminate the annual license plate stickers and require that registration be validated at the same time that vehicles are inspected. Also, a license plate would stay with a vehicle from the time it is sold until it is junked.

Legislator to introduce handgun registration law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. John M. Murphy, D-N.Y., sponsor in the House of the 1968 Gun Control Act, announced shortly after the shooting incident involving President Ford Monday that he would re-introduce legislation to require registration of handguns.

There is a "gun insanity" in this country that must be halted, Murphy said.

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott, Pa., called on Presidents and candidates for the office to limit their casual exposure to the public, at least for a while.

In a statement urging Democratic congressional leaders to move quickly on gun registration legislation, Murphy said, "How many more attempts on the lives of our Presidents must we endure before we enact sane gun control measures?"

Scott said, "I would hope that the President and other candidates would be persuaded to put some limitation on random handshaking and events of that kind until we can see whether this madness is temporary. It seems enduring."

Congress ought also to consider what additional security measures can be provided Presidents and candidates to protect them from potential assassins, Scott said.

"It's very difficult in a free society. Fanatics can find their own way to break through almost any form of protection, and candidates don't like their contact with the people cut off," Scott said.

The 1968 Gun Control Act cracked down on the importation of cheap foreign-made handguns — so-called Saturday night specials — but according to gun registration advocates some American manufactures stepped into the market and it is now just as easy to buy an inexpensive pistol as it was before.

Murphy has also introduced legislation to curb the easy availability of American-made Saturday night specials.

Denenberg blasts Shapp's PUC offer

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Herbert Denenberg charged Monday that Gov. Milton J. Shapp's proposal to renominate him to a vacancy on the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission was a political maneuver and part of the governor's campaign for the presidency.

Denenberg, breaking a month-long silence on the proposed appointment, told a news conference he would not accept renomination unless Shapp makes it clear he intends to resubmit it promptly to the state Senate.

"Out of respect to the wishes of the consumer, I will consider allowing my name to be sent to the Senate again," Denenberg said, "but this is not the time for my decision." Denenberg attained a national reputation as a consumer advocate while serving as state insurance commissioner.

"Even though the governor knows the Senate is in the wings ready to do his dirty work, he has still not made a clear statement that he is going to send my name to the Senate."

"In any event," Denenberg said, "it's clear that this whole PUC maneuver is just part of his campaign for the presidency just as his previous broken promises were part of his campaign for the governorship."

People began screaming. San Francisco police linked their arms together to hold back the crowd. Some of them drew guns near where the shot apparently was fired.

Youth dies of crash injuries

EAST STROUDSBURG — An 8-year-old Tobyhanna youth became Monroe County's 23rd traffic fatality Monday when he succumbed to injuries suffered in a car-bicycle collision last Wednesday.

Charles Gukin, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gukin of Tobyhanna, died at 9:30 a.m. Monday in the intensive care unit of the General Hospital of Monroe County.

A hospital spokesman said the youth never regained consciousness after being thrown from the small bicycle he and Milt Giersberg, 10, were riding on in the Village of Tobyhanna around 4:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The Giersberg youth was reported Monday in satisfactory condition. He has been taken out of the intensive care unit, the spokesman said. The youth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Giersberg of Tobyhanna.

According to Coolbaugh Township Police Chief Joseph Gerrity, the boys were riding the bike on the wrong side of Main Street in Tobyhanna.

Gerrity said the driver of the car which struck the bicycle, Gerald J. Telpas, 23, of Tobyhanna R.D. 1, was not injured. No charges have been filed against Telpas, Gerrity said, but he added he has been consulting with Monroe County District Attorney James F. Marsh and Coroner Daniel G. Warner.

The police chief said witnesses reported they saw the two youths riding the bicycle prior to the collision. The bike was zig-zagging down the street, they said, according to Gerrity.

Both youths' fathers are in the U.S. Army. Gukin is stationed in Korea. Giersberg is in Germany.

Third try on Ford's life

By United Press International

The shot fired at President Ford in downtown San Francisco Monday was the third incident involving an apparent attempt on his life in 17 days — two of them in California.

A single shot was fired in the direction of the President just after he emerged from the St. Francis Hotel Monday and a suspect, a woman identified as Sarah Moore, was arrested moments later.

The President was not injured and Secret Service agents hustled him into a limousine and headed for the airport where Ford took off for Washington aboard Air Force One about 30 minutes after the shooting incident.

Just 17 days ago, a woman pointed a loaded .45-caliber automatic at Ford from only about two feet away on the California capital grounds in Sacramento. The gun did not go off and a Secret Service agent grabbed the suspect as the President was hustled away.

Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, a follower of convicted mass murderer Charles Manson, is charged with trying to kill the President in the Sept. 5 incident.

Miss Fromme, 26, has pleaded not guilty to the charge of attempting to assassinate the President and has been ordered to undergo a mental examination.

What might have been another attempt on Ford's life occurred Sept. 12 when the President was in St. Louis to speak to a black Baptist convention.

A policeman spotted a man with a .45-caliber automatic on a third floor catwalk in Kiel Auditorium about an hour before Ford was to address the convention from the stage below.

Officials said the man would have been able to shoot at Ford from his position on the catwalk.

Patrolman Thomas Calcaterra, who spotted the man, gave chase, but the suspect ran out a door and was believed to have escaped through a parking garage. The suspect was described as a white man, about 35, wearing a black wig.

Before Tuesday's attempt on his life, Ford said he would not let such incidents curtail his public appearances.

HARRISBURG (UPI) — A House committee that audited the Metropolitan Edison Co. of Reading said Monday the utility overpaid coal suppliers $3.2 million in 1974 and passed all the increased costs onto consumers.

The Mines and Energy Management Committee criticized Met Ed for failing to take the coal suppliers into court to uphold long-term contracts that banned arbitrary price hikes.

However, the committee also said Met Ed was the victim of forces it could not control, including the Arab oil embargo, a shortage of railroad coal cars and the failure of the utility's Three Mile Island nuclear plant to open on time.

Committee Chairman Bernard O'Brien, D-Luzerne, said his committee had yet to discover one Pennsylvania utility that fought the huge increases demanded by coal suppliers last year.

"These utilities have all kinds of legal advisers on their staffs, but not one of them tried to challenge the coal contracts," O'Brien said.

He said the utilities failed to fight such increases because all the costs were immediately passed onto their customers through the fuel adjustment charge.

However, the audit said Met Ed officials felt they had to accept the increases or lose their coal contracts, a move that could have led to a cutback in electric service.

"We can't burn law suits for fuel," one utility executive said.

Thousands flee inland to escape raging Eloise

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — Two-time Hurricane Eloise aimed 110 mile per hour winds and torrential rains at the Gulf Coast Monday night while thousands of residents fled inland to escape the storm.

The National Hurricane Center said the storm intensified during the day as it crossed the Gulf waters and would likely strengthen even more before slamming ashore with eight-foot tides in the Mobile-Pensacola, Fla., area late Monday night or early this morning.

At dusk, gale force winds — which extended outwards 125 miles from the storm — were hitting Louisiana at the mouth of the Mississippi River with gusts over 50 miles per hour reported at Venice, La.

At least 25 persons were rescued from three oil drilling rigs as helicopters flew repeated missions to rescue boaters and oil rig crewmen in the Gulf.

Hurricane warnings were in effect from Grand Isle, La., to Apalachicola, Fla. Dr. Neil Frank, director of the hurricane center, said a large circulation of bad weather covered most of the northern Gulf and the extreme weather would hit far in advance of the center of the hurricane.

"This is not a major storm — of the Camille type," said Frank. "On a scale of 1 to 5, with 5 being a Camille, Eloise now measures a 2. But you have to respect a hurricane. You can get killed in a 2 hurricane."

Patrolman Thomas Calcaterra, who spotted the man, gave chase, but the suspect ran out a door and was believed to have escaped through a parking garage. The suspect was described as a white man, about 35, wearing a black wig.

Before Tuesday's attempt on his life, Ford said he would not let such incidents curtail his public appearances.

What's news

Beirut fighting continues

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Rival Lebanese Moslem and Christian militiamen fought with bullets, rockets and mortars in Beirut Monday for the fifth consecutive day, threatening a complete breakdown of the two-day-old cease-fire negotiated by Syria. Peace efforts were deadlocked and the warring factions split over Syrian mediation. Bodies found after overnight clashes raised the toll in the city-wide fighting between right-wing Christian and left-wing Moslem militias to at least 150 dead and 230 wounded. Total casualties in the civil strife since April are about 3,100 dead or wounded. Scattered shooting in downtown Beirut and clashes with mortars in the suburbs threatened the cease-fire arranged Saturday night with collapse.

Anti-busing filibuster strong

WASHINGTON — Senate leaders said Monday there is little hope of compromise on a measure to end forced busing to desegregate schools, and predicted it will be difficult to kill a filibuster by busing opponents. "It's your emotion on one hand and your sense of justice on the other," Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott told reporters. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said "it's going to be awfully difficult" to invoke cloture today on the $45.1 billion appropriations bill for the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare as long as the busing issue remains. Scott and Mansfield said they are willing to vote on a pending amendment by Assistant Democratic Leader Robert Byrd that would essentially leave intact the anti-busing language added last week by the Senate.

Economical cars

WASHINGTON — The new Chevrolet Chevette, the Datsun B-210 and the Subaru, all at 33 miles per gallon, are the most economical among 1976 model cars, the Environmental Protection Agency said Monday. In general, the EPA said, fuel economy is improving with the average for all new cars at 17.6 m.p.g. — a 26.6 per cent improvement over 1975 models which averaged 15.6 m.p.g. The least economical American car tested was a Plymouth Gran Fury Wagon with eight cylinders, automatic transmission and a 440-cubic-inch engine. It averaged 12 m.p.g. — 11 in the city and 15 on the road. The very bottom of the list was shared by three Rolls-Royce models and the Jaguar X12, all of which averaged 11 m.p.g.

Circle the wagons!

FT. LARAMIE, Wyo. — Twenty wagons of the American Bicentennial Wagon Train, some of which crossed rugged mountain passes and sweated through 116-degree desert heat this summer, will arrive Wednesday to spend the winter at this historic old post on the Oregon Trail. About 100 pilgrims are aboard the prairie schooners, some of which have traveled 2,000 miles this summer. Seventeen wagons joined up with three from Montana last Friday near Casper. The northwest states are represented in the train which will join up next year with wagons from other states to arrive in Valley Forge, Pa. July 4. The wagon train, which each night features a traveling musical show where it stops, is sponsored by the Bicentennial Commission of Pennsylvania. "When they arrive we will fire a volley from a 12-pound mountain howitzer and men dressed in old soldier's uniforms will raise the bicentennial flag at the parade ground," said R.H. Maeder, superintendent at Ft. Laramie.

Chou's condition worsening

HONG KONG — Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, hospitalized almost one and a half years for a still-undisclosed ailment, may have taken a turn for the worse, diplomatic sources said Monday. They said dispatches from Peking indicated a worsening of Chou's condition after the 78-year-old premier failed to meet visiting former British Prime Minister Edward Heath over the weekend. Heath met Mao Tse-tung, the 81-year-old Chairman of the Chinese Communist party. Chinese officials told Heath that Chou had wanted to see him but doctors had overruled him and prohibited the meeting, the diplomatic sources said. One important indicator of how serious Chou's condition is will be whether he receives a delegation of the North Vietnamese Workers Communist Party, headed by First Secretary Le Duan, which arrived in Peking Monday.

No changes for Ft. Dix

WASHINGTON — The Army has changed its plans to transfer basic training operations from Ft. Dix in New Jersey, to Ft. Benning, in Georgia, Army Secretary Martin R. Hoffman announced Monday. Hoffman told members of the House Military Construction Subcommittee on Appropriations that Fort Dix would continue to be a major Army base at its present level of operation. Rep. Edward J. Patton, D-N.J., a member of the subcommittee, said the panel would draft legislation banning the use of funds to transfer any operations from the New Jersey base to Ft. Benning. Patton said a major factor against the planned transfer was an estimated $240.3 million the move would have cost. "It was not practical from a cost standpoint," said Patton.

Philly sludge not welcome

NEWARK, N.J. — U.S. Attorney Jonathan L. Goldstein said Monday he was prepared to go to court to block a Philadelphia plan to dump 30-years accumulation of untreated sludge in landfill sites in southern New Jersey. Goldstein said he contacted the Environmental Protection Agency following published reports that the city of Philadelphia planned to transfer 30,000 cubic yards of waste to New Jersey. "We have asked that they (EPA) reject the proposal to dump this toxic material in the state," Goldstein said. "But we are prepared to seek appropriate injunctive relief to prevent Philadelphia from dumping in this state." The waste is equivalent to the amount of human waste produced by Philadelphia's 2 million residents in one year and would fill 20 landfill sites in southern New Jersey to capacity in two years.

Ford calls up Nixon

MONTREY, Calif. — President Ford personally telephoned former President Richard M. Nixon Sunday, White House news secretary Ron Nessen said Monday. Nessen said it was a five-minute conversation and declined to disclose what was discussed. "It was a private conversation," he said. The call was made from the OceanSide residence of U.S. Ambassador Leonard K. Firestone, said Nessen.

Striking teachers arrested

WILMINGTON, Del. — More than 200 striking teachers were arrested Monday after they refused orders to move away from entrances to the Wilmington Public Building, police said. The teachers, who have been walking picket lines since the strike began Sept. 3, were charged with disorderly conduct and blocking entrance to a public building. Police said the teachers submitted to arrest quietly and there were no incidents of violence. "They have been picketing there before but each time they moved out of the way when told to do so," Police Sgt. William Miller said. "Today they just didn't move and we warned them several times and told them what the consequences were but they still refused to move."

Boston teachers strike

BOSTON (UPI) — The nation's oldest school system was paralyzed Monday by a teachers' strike that union leaders said was 90 per cent effective. The leaders, who ignored a court order against the strike, were ordered to face possible contempt charges.

The strike shut down most schools, accomplishing in one morning what antibusing forces had failed to do in two weeks of sporadic demonstrations against court-ordered desegregation.

Suffolk Superior Court Judge Samuel Adams, who issued an injunction Friday against the strike, scheduled a 10 a.m. hearing today for the officers and executive committee members of the Boston Teachers Union.

Most of Boston's 84,000 students stayed home. The city's 167 school buildings, though officially open, were nearly empty as many of the 4,900 members of the union marched on picket lines when the school bell rang.

"This is a strike for education," union president Henry Robinson told a midday rally.

Official figures showed 4,617 teachers did not show up for work at the start of the third week of the fall term. Boston is in its second year of court-ordered busing to integrate public schools.

State law prohibits strikes by teachers and other public employees, with punishment listed as jail terms for the strikers and fines for the union.

State in fight to save girl's life

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (UPI) — The state of New Jersey took over a court fight Monday to save the life of a young woman whose family has given up hope she can ever recover from a mysterious coma and wants her to be allowed to die.

The state entered the case to try to prevent the parents of Karen Ann Quinlan, 21, from removing an artificial respirator that has kept the once-athletic, socially active woman alive since she was stricken last April.

Superior Court Judge Robert Muir Jr. said a full trial on the parents' lawsuit against the woman's doctors will begin Oct. 20, with the courtroom likely to become the setting for a classic legal test of the definition of death.

Attorney General William F. Hyland said after a pre-trial hearing that he is siding with the doctors because he is "concerned about the legal definition of death."

"What the family has done is squarely raise the issue of euthanasia," Hyland said. "If that is to become law, it should be established by legislation and not in the courts."

The Quinlan family was not in court for the hearing, a three-hour review of the points that will come up during the trial.

Daniel R. Coburn, a court-appointed public defender for the comatose woman, said he opposes the family's wishes because he has "substantial doubt" that her brain has ceased to function, a factor that could be used to decide whether she is legally dead. In New Jersey, a person is considered legally alive if his heart continues to beat.

Coburn said he visited Miss Quinlan's bedside at St. Clare's Hospital last week and noticed that her eyes blink and her tongue and lips move.

Miss Quinlan's mother, Julia, has said her daughter has become "a vegetable" and that doctors have assured her there is no hope for recovery.

"Without debating the moral, theological or practical considerations, it is absolutely certain in my mind that (the family's) request is, in effect, asking this court to authorize a mercy killing."

A county prosecutor said Friday that hospital records show the stricken woman apparently mixed alcohol and a tranquilizing drug.

Ford takes tough stand on security of country

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — President Ford said Monday that while U.S. citizens would not stand for America policing the world, he would interfere in the internal affairs of other nations for the benefit of national security.

At a luncheon of the World Affairs Council, Ford replied to a question about interference in other nation's affairs, by saying: "It's my judgment that if properly handled we should not rule out responsible action in this area."

He also was asked whether he could lay down the limitations under which the United States might so intervene.

"To categorically rule it out or to describe the specific limitations here would not be proper for the President of the United States," he said. "If it benefits our national security, I think we ought to do it."

But Ford said in response to a question that he sees "no prospect" of sending military forces to the Middle East.

"We're on a course that precludes that," he added, referring to the interim Sinai accords hammered out recently under the auspices of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

In discussing possible U.S. interference in other nation's affairs, Ford said, "This is a critical and crucial area," and that some of the past actions by intelligence agents have been beneficial.

Ford said it has been traditional for the United States "in one way or another to involve itself directly or indirectly in the affairs of other countries," when its national security is involved.

'Auto-free zones' next for U.S. cities

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Several American cities will have experimental "auto-free zones" next year with an eye toward keeping cars out of large downtown districts forever, U.S. Federal Highway Administrator Norbert T. Tiemann said Monday.

"I think that it will work. I may be wrong — but we are going to find out," Tiemann said in a speech to the 43rd annual meeting of the International Bridge, Tunnel and Turnpike Association in Paris. A transcript of the speech was released here.

"We simply cannot afford the one-car, one-occupant concept any longer" because of the energy crisis, rising oil costs and "the ever-growing congestion and air and noise pollution in our large cities," Tiemann said.

"In other words, we need to create auto-free zones in our large cities," he said, adding they would be feasible in "a variety of urban settings — commercial, residential, historic and institutional."

Tiemann, a former governor of Nebraska, said he expected opposition from those who fear shoppers would be kept away if they could not drive directly downtown. "Certainly it would be unpopular politically. But I think it is an idea whose time must come soon."

Tiemann said FHA planners were making a one-year study and the experiment would begin next year. He said in the "auto-free zones," most auto traffic would be kept out in favor of pedestrians — but "special forms of conveyances" such as jitneys or minibuses might be allowed.

Morton won't reveal firms in probe of Israel boycott

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Commerce Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton told a House committee Monday he was "put in a terrible spot," but even a contempt of Congress citation cannot make him tell what American companies were approached by Arabs about a trade boycott against Israel.

"You realize that as a result of your refusal to comply ... you may be held in contempt of the House of Representatives," Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., chairman of the subcommittee on oversight and investigations, said with a shaking voice.

"Yes, sir," Morton replied. "From the standpoint of trying to do my job ... I'm put in a terrible spot."

Moss exploded. "The chairman is damned if he is going to sit in a Congress that is spoon-fed by the executive!" He adjourned the meeting after three hours and said the committee would decide this week on whether to cite Morton for contempt.

As the exchange was going on, the American Jewish Congress filed suit in U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia, seeking an injunction to force Morton to open Commerce Department files.

Morton told the Jewish organization last week it was in "the national interest" to keep the reports "confidential" because naming the companies "might reveal to their trade competitors valuable intelligence" and expose them to "obvious countermeasures and pressures by various individuals and groups."

FATHERS AND SONS MAN CANOES — Water sports attracted large crowds at the Worldwide Church of God's annual "Family Day" at Toby-hanna State Park. There were father and son canoe races, mother and daughter rowboat races and husband and wife rowboat races.

WWCG includes all ages

MOUNT POCONO — Andrew Conner of Phoenixville is an eight-year veteran of Worldwide Church of God conventions. Andrew is eight years old.

And Mr. and Mrs. William Sawyer, who spent a leisurely Monday afternoon watching canoe races, are enjoying their honeymoon at the church convention.

Sawyer is 71-years-old and his new bride, Edith, is 68.

Even though all these individuals are unique, they also represent a diversity of people at the 9th Annual Worldwide Church of God festival in Mount Pocono.

For Andrew and his brothers Stephen, 9, and Michael, 12, the festival is a time for horseback riding, visits to zoos, bike rides, outdoor picnics, shows and musical revues.

"I really enjoy it here," Andrew said. "It's colder than in Missouri, but that's all right."

Older brother Michael explained that the family had attended church festivals at Lake of the Ozarks, Mo. during the last two years.

Although all three boys are veterans of church conventions, they really seem to enjoy this year's events more than those of previous years.

The reason? "Our school district is on strike," Michael explained. "At least it was on strike when we left. I'm not sure if it has ended or not."

Newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer have attended 16 conventions including ones at Squaw Valley, Calif. and Big Sandy, Texas.

"We've only been married one week," Sawyer explained, "and this is our honeymoon."

A resident of Eugene, Oregon, Sawyer said he has been corresponding with Edith since last November.

Mrs. Sawyer explained that she hadn't met her future husband until three weeks ago.

"We only wrote to one another," she said.

"That's right," Mrs. Sawyer chimed in, "and I wasn't going to buy a ring until we met formally."

The Sawyers are attending the church convention in Mount Pocono for the fifth year.

Worldwide church visitors participate in 'Family Day'

MOUNT POCONO — Hundreds of members of the Worldwide Church of God filled picnic and camping areas at Tobyhanna State Park Monday for their annual "Family Day."

Canoe races, track events and children's games highlighted the day's activities with ribbons and trophies awarded in most of the competitive events.

Water sports started off the afternoon with a father and son canoe race, mother and daughter rowboat race, husband and wife rowboat race and general boat races.

Later in the afternoon, track events were held for both males and females in the following age divisions: 13-19, 20-25, and 56 and over.

While parents participated in track and field contests, a separate program was organized for children in a parking lot in the state park.

Although the contests weren't Olympic caliber, they still managed to attract a lot of young enthusiasts.

Egg dribbling, rock and roll relay, wild obstacle course and blindman's football were especially popular with youngsters.

Even though most of the participants managed to have a good time, some of them still must have felt "the whole program was all wet."

Like Larry Smith of Gloucester, Va., for instance, who managed to tip his canoe in the father and son canoe race.

Fully dressed and soaking wet, Smith waded ashore to the cheers of the crowd. His son, Dane, 14, attempted to explain that his father "was paddling too fast."

"His paddling caused the canoe to tip. We just couldn't round that turn," Dane explained.

Laughing while wringing his shirt, Smith wasn't sure if he agreed with his son's version of the mishap, but said, "I think I will let him tell the story."

For the Smith family, this is the first time to the Poconos for the Worldwide Church of God convention. Smith said his family has attended other church conventions in the country.

In addition to organized contests, there were also plenty of individual activities going on.

While his friends made castles in the sand at Tobyhanna beach, David Jeffrey Diamond, 10, of Pike County, Kentucky kept busy making a castle of grass.

And Tony Dilsworth, 10, of

WWCG talent on display

MOUNT POCONO — Six local judges will review a Worldwide Church of God talent show 7 p.m. Tuesday at the church's convention site.

The talent show, a part of the church convention festivities, is actually a semi-final talent contest sponsored by Youth Opportunities United (YOU) the Worldwide Church of God's youth organization.

Winners of this contest will receive an all-expense paid trip to Ambassador College in Pasadena, Calif. The national finals will be held there and the winner will be selected on Nov. 29. Top prize in the contest is a full scholarship to Ambassador College.

The judge's for Tuesday night's performance include: Dr. Arthur Mark, associate professor of education; East Stroudsburg State College; Dr. Dean Reeder, speech communication and theater arts faculty member at ESSC; Dr. William Hein, vice-president of academic affairs, ESSC; Rachella Waring, professional singer, dancer, choreographer, Jean Ann Wolbert, local organist and soloist; and Eleanor Fields Holden, former concert pianist now active as state and north-east regional chairman of National Music Week.

The national talent contest is the second major YOU activity. Formed in March, YOU organized and sponsored a nationwide basketball tournament consisting of eight major teams across the U.S. last spring. These eight teams were selected from smaller area tournaments.

YOU was formed to provide opportunities for young people in subjects such as art, athletics, academics and social recreation.

What about women and insurance? Does a woman need life insurance protection? Across the board, the answer is generally — yes.

If the woman works, and is the sole family support, she needs the same protection a man would. Her loss could be catastrophic to the family.

If her function is to take care of the children and the home, this too has economic value, as the family will learn if it tries to hire someone to perform these jobs.

Disability income is another factor. Both Social Security and, perhaps, her employer offer some coverage. If this is not enough, she ought to consider disability insurance. Here, the deductible is in terms of time, rather than money.

Even single women with no dependents might well consider an annuity, as well as health and disability insurance.

We care about women.

The high and continually growing use of electricity from 8 in the morning until 8 in the evening is one of the major reasons why the cost of electricity has been increasing in recent years. Fortunately there is a way to reduce this growth in daytime demand for electricity and, at the same time, to minimize the size of increases in the cost of electric service.

The key is for people to hold off until 8 p.m. on as many uses of electricity as possible! Clothes washing and drying, dishwashing, baking and bathing are the major activities that should be rescheduled to after 8 p.m. But rescheduling any activity that requires the use of electricity will help.

Sheer enormity of federal welfare pay shocking

BY MARK BROWN
Ottaway News Service
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — One of the better known facts about the federal welfare system is that more people than ever are on the public assistance rolls this year, drawing more federal funds than ever before.

What is surprising, however, is the sheer enormity of these figures — 24.7 million Americans receiving some form of welfare assistance at a cost of more than $142 billion during fiscal year 1975.

Put another way, 45 cents of every federal dollar spent last year went into some kind of income security program, compared to 34 cents in fiscal year 1970, according to research by the Congressional Joint Economic Committee.

Then there was another $21 billion pumped into welfare programs by state and local governments during fiscal 1975, up about $10 billion from 1970.

What it adds up to is a lot of money spent on programs that federal officials admit have not solved the nation's poverty problems.

The Joint Economic Committee, which is zeroing in on major welfare reform legislation following three years of intensive study, notes that the poverty gap has remained virtually the same despite the huge increases in welfare outlays this decade.

In fact, an HEW task force on welfare reform concluded that the entire $66 billion spent on welfare between 1962 and 1973 had a "relatively trivial impact" on the poverty of families with children.

Between 1962 and 1973 the poverty population measured by the census bureau dropped only slightly to 23 million persons, the Joint Economic Committee determined.

A spokesman for the Social and Rehabilitation Service, which is the welfare branch of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), said 25.6 million Americans are expected to receive income security assistance during fiscal year 1975.

An investigative report released last December by the Joint Economic Committee breaks down the federal expenditures for income security programs during fiscal year 1973 into three categories: need-based benefits, social insurance, and deferred compensation.

The largest chunk of these expenditures goes into social insurance programs, including old age, survivors, disability, federal-state unemployment, black lung and railroad retirement insurance.

These cash outlays of $55 billion, plus $9 billion in supplementary medical insurance, brought to $64 billion the federal outlays for social insurance in fiscal 1973.

Need-based benefits were the second largest source of payments, totaling $26.7 billion in fiscal 1973, according to the committee report.

Among the largest items in this category were Medicaid

($4.2 billion), Aid to Families with Dependent Children ($3.8 billion), pensions for veterans, dependents and survivors ($2.5 billion), old age assistance ($1.1 billion), food stamps ($2.1 billion), school breakfast and lunch programs ($1.4 billion), and rural housing loans ($1.7 billion).

The final category, deferred compensation, totaled $16 billion. That included $4.4 billion for military retirement, $4.3 billion for federal civil service retirement, and $5.9 billion compensation for veterans, dependents and survivors.

The grand total for fiscal 1973 income security outlays was $107.7 billion, which was supplemented by $18.6 billion in state-local outlays.

Two years later these totals exceeded $140 billion and $21 billion, but poverty levels remained high in the United States, which is why both the Ford Administration and Congress are gearing up for a new effort to streamline the welfare system.

One of 15 Pennsylvania residents on public assistance

By JOHN L. MOORE
Ottaway News Service
Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — One of every 15 Pennsylvania residents was a welfare recipient last month.

The state Department of Public Welfare, which keeps track of such things, reported there were 754,997 Pennsylvanians "dependent on public assistance" during the first half of August.

With the state's population estimated at 11.8 million people, the August figure means that of every 15 state residents, one was enrolled in a relief program — the Aid-to-Dependent-Children-Plan, the general assistance plan, or the state blind pension plan.

Welfare is one of Pennsylvania's biggest expenses. The state expects to pay out $825 million — roughly $70 for every man, woman and child residing in the Commonwealth — to 782,000 welfare recipients during the current fiscal year, which began July 1 and will run through June 30, 1976.

Historically, Pennsylvania has had some type of welfare aid for its impoverished residents since colonial days. As long ago as 1676, Pennsylvania officials were obligated to make "provision for the poor."

These "provisions" were harsh: In the early 1700s, for example, the government had the right to indenture the children of poor people, and welfare recipients were required to wear a letter "P," fashioned from red or blue cloth, on their sleeves. The "P" signified "Pauper."

Times have changed since then.

Today's welfare recipient is entitled to a monthly grant, which, for a family of four, varies from $310 to $373 according to the family's geographic location.

In addition to this, a recipient is entitled to free health care, which includes dental and medical treatment; is eligible to participate in the federal food stamp program, and may, in some instances, own a home, hold down a job and own a car. In some cases, a relief recipient may even own two cars.

Welfare in Pennsylvania is chiefly an urban problem.

During fiscal 1974-75, for example, most of the state's welfare recipients — 410,096 of 727,995 people according to Welfare Department statistics — lived either in Philadelphia or Allegheny Counties. These counties contain the state's two biggest cities, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

A comparison of Welfare Department statistics for early August with the latest population figures available revealed that one of every 14.6 people living in Allegheny County was on welfare.

In Philadelphia County, the situation was even more extreme: one of every 3.7 residents was a welfare recipient.

This was in sharp contrast with the welfare picture in two of Pennsylvania's highly rural counties, Pike County in Northeastern Pennsylvania, and Montour County in the central part of the Commonwealth.

In Pike County, one of every 32.6 county residents was a welfare recipient. In Montour County, one of every 55 residents was receiving welfare assistance.

Give United Way

The Monroe County United Way campaign is two weeks old, and well on the way to reaching its record goal of raising $179,477 for charities with local outreach.

It is a new year, a new campaign and a new name for the county-wide fund drive. For years, the effort was made under the banner of the Red Feather and the Community Chest.

This year, the name is United Way and the symbol is the helping hand. We think the new symbol is an apt one, for that is what United Way seeks to do — extend a helping hand to those who need it.

The drive usually is divided into two parts, one which seeks donations from business and industry and one which solicits financial help from individuals. Both aspects are vital, for without one the other simply cannot help the drive reach its goal — to provide the funds needed for local agencies, and those with local chapters, to do their job of helping others.

We urge everyone, whether sitting behind the treasurer's desk in some business or industry, or reclining in a favorite easy chair in his or her home, to respond with generosity when the United Way volunteer comes calling.

The agencies dependent on United Way help — ultimately, your help — are those that you or your family may well need at some time in the future. It is an opportunity to help yourself as well as others.

Free dental work, too

WASHINGTON — Members of Congress, newly blessed with a salary boost and already loaded with fringe benefits, have for years been chiseling the Navy for free dental care.

The roster of legislators illegally getting root-canal work, deluxe fillings, dental surgery and even new plates reads like the leadership pages of the Congressional Directory.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., Senator Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., and ex-Senator Norris Cotton, R-N.H., are only a few of the solons whose smiles reflect free custom care at the top-notch Navy Yard clinic.

Former Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Robert Finch, who might have gotten bootleg care from his own departmental dentists, chose instead to patronize the Navy. Even prominent foreign diplomats were sneaked into the clinic.

Navy regulations, and human decency, require dentists to take care of patients in a true emergency. Such appears to be the case when Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., went to the clinic after he broke his tooth on a prune pit in a Senate restaurant.

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., also feels he comes under the emergency rule because he needed a filling replaced and wasn't scheduled to see his regular dentist in Chicago for a month.

Rep. L.H. Fountain, D-N.C., says his treatment for a cracked tooth a few days ago was also an "emergency situation."

But what of Mike Mansfield, usually as austere as his spare frame with the taxpayers money? After treatment of an abscessed tooth, he has now become a repeat patient of the Navy Yard's nationally known dentist, Capt. Michael Brenyo.

Sen. William Hathaway, D-Me., is also a frequent patient and has been treated for gum surgery and root-canal work by the solicitous Navy dentists.

Hatfield underwent even more extensive work. Originally he dropped in at the clinic for "swelling of the mouth." But over a period of several years, Brenyo has done much of Hatfield's dental work, including a costly root canal.

House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., insists his visits to the clinic were for "minor dental work." Besides, his retired military pay status may make the work legal. Senator Cotton, we have learned, had a dental plate repaired and reportedly had a new one made. And Rep. Edward Boland, D-Mass., has had extensive gum invigoration work.

To their credit, all the prominent patients acknowledged their visits. Few were as frank as Finch, a former chief aide to Richard Nixon. Not only did he go, Finch said, but he "saw a number of Congressmen while I was down there."

Dental experts no longer in the clinic have fumed openly about the illegal work, but our reporter Gary Cohn visited the clinic and found anything but an "open wide" policy.

Commanding officer Stewart Elder, who has personally greeted such visitors as Hatfield, successfully dodged all our queries. When Cohn called him at home, the Navy captain refused even to speak to him.

Nevertheless, we have discovered that Elder justified the improper treatment of high government figures by telling his colleagues it would help the clinic at budget time.

Footnote: Several of the patients said they were unaware they were doing anything wrong.

State welfare roll still climbing

OTTAWAY NEWS SERVICE
Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — Bolstered by large injections of federal funds, state welfare spending has climbed dramatically in the past five years.

During the 1969-70 fiscal year, Pennsylvania paid out $369 million in assistance to 518,143 welfare recipients. Recipients participating in the Aid-to-Dependent-Children program received an average $687 that year. Recipients enrolled in the general assistance program got average grants of $976.

By fiscal 1974-75, however, the number of welfare recipients had climbed to 727,996. And state spending for the three basic welfare programs had nearly doubled to $727 million.

The average welfare payment to people enrolled in the Aid-to-Dependent-Children plan totalled $922 in fiscal 1974-75, a figure that was up considerable over the average annual grant of $687 five years earlier.

The average annual payment to people participating in the general assistance program had also climbed — from $976 in 1969-70 to $1,492 in fiscal 1974-75.

Statistics obtained from the state Budget Office show that welfare spending is projected to climb again during the current fiscal year to approximately $829 million.

Letters to the editor

Where's our charity?

Editor, The Record:

The spectacle of President Ford and Vice-President Rockefeller attacking the cost and waste of federal expenditures for social welfare is saddening.

Ford fears that, if social spending by the federal government continues, "by the year 2000 half the people of this nation will be living off the other half." Here is a $200,000-a-year President (with a pension of $70,000 a year for life) lamenting that the "haves" must help the "have-nots." In the Judeo-Christian moral tradition, "caritas" and charity, the quality of being kind and helpful to those in need, is considered a moral responsibility and a supreme virtue.

Rockefeller warns, "But if we destroy the basic system (free enterprise) which has given us our strength . . . then we've destroyed our society." In other words, if the federal government spends the tax-payers' money to help the hungry and the poor among us, we've undermined the very economic system that victimized these unfortunate citizens.

That argument from a multi-millionaire smacks of callousness and short-sightedness. The millions of Americans who require social welfare did not choose their condition; they represent the malfunction of an imperfect economic system and therefore the responsibility of a humane society.

The truth is that President Ford and Vice-President Rockefeller (who don't need food stamps, free lunch, or unemployment compensation) are not really against social welfare. They didn't object to federal assistance to bankrupt banks, the Penn - Central railroad, and Lockheed; and they didn't campaign against tax loopholes for wealthy individuals and for large corporations.

How sad it is that the political leaders of the richest nation in the world should have forgotten verse 13 of Corinthians: "And now abideth faith, hope, and charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity."

What happened to no-fault drive?

(First of two columns)

What has happened to the drive for "no-fault" auto insurance — the concept under which the burden of proving who was at fault in an auto accident is eliminated, lawsuits are limited to only the more serious injury cases and insurance dollars are spread more rapidly and more fairly among victims?

In 1970, Massachusetts became the first state to test no-fault. Florida followed in 1971. Connecticut, Michigan and New Jersey went along in 1972. The move to no-fault peaked in 1973 when six more states — Colorado, Hawaii, Kansas, Nevada, New York and Utah — passed no-fault laws.

And since then, the going has been slow. In 1974, only four states — Georgia, Minnesota, Pennsylvania and Kentucky — got no-fault. In 1975, only North Dakota has acted to bring the broader benefits to its motorists.

(While eight other states have passed no-fault laws, these are dismissed as "bogus" by experts in the field, for they generally do no more than add a limited layer of coverage without any moves to control costs.)

Thus, the discouraging answer to the question is:

More than two-thirds of the states do not have bona fide no-fault laws;

Prospects for progress in these states — as demonstrated by activity in the past few years — are disheartening;

Even the 16 genuine no-fault laws cannot be called totally adequate in terms of benefit levels and limits on lawsuits.

These 16 laws do put some restriction on access to "pain and suffering" damages so popular in many lawsuits (while none takes away your right to a day in court). Most of the 16 allow suits for pain and suffering only when medical bills reach a certain dollar level (the threshold). The Michigan law has no threshold but limits suits to cases of "serious" injury.

With effective no-fault in every state, the auto reparations system would be rid of the waste, delay, injustice and personal tragedy that so often pervades the fault system. With effective no-fault, our auto insurance premiums could pay for a substantial part of the losses of those seriously injured in auto accidents (as against the mere 30 per cent of the losses they now receive). What's more, insurance experts say that based on today's cost factors, this could be done without any increase in premiums.

The next logical question must be "why the slowdown?" Why hasn't the concept been embraced across the nation in face of the fact that virtually every element in our society — labor, business, consumer organizations, educators, public officials, the press — has hailed no-fault as indisputably in the public interest?

The equally discouraging answer to this question is:

Opposition from one major source — the personal liability bar.

And since the liability bar is heavily represented in the various state legislatures and no-fault strikes at the core of many lawyers' livelihoods (auto accident injury lawsuits), the lawmakers themselves have consistently attacked the concept and repeatedly been successful either in blocking entirely or substantially watering down no-fault bills.

Unless those deeply in favor of no-fault become fully aware of what is at stake and take strong countermeasures to the personal liability lawyers' tactics, there is absolutely no reason to believe the lawyers will be less successful in the future than in the past.

Bisexual wife

Dear Ann Landers: Almost all the letters about bisexuality you have printed have dealt with males who went both ways. In my case it's my wife who is bisexual.

I learned of my wife's affair after we had been married a short time. She had known this woman for a few years but decided to marry me, have a family, and try to forget about her.

Sixteen years have passed. We have three perfectly beautiful children who seem well adjusted and happy. My wife and I have a nice, peaceful relationship — no problems so long as I don't show any signs of jealousy or animosity toward her woman friend.

We went for counseling (at my insistence) and to my great surprise the counselor said, "Your marriage is in better shape than most." The outcome was that my wife considers herself completely liberated, and feels she has the best of both possible worlds.

The Other Woman is cultivated, attractive, and nobody suspects a thing. I am reluctant to let 16 years of marriage to down the drain because of what it might do to our children — particularly if the facts come out. Yet it is extremely difficult to remain married to a woman who has what I consider a serious problem. What can you suggest? —

Square In Madison

Dear S.: More counseling. For you. A man who could stay married to a bisexual woman for 16 years is not my average run-of-the-mill reader. There are several aspects of your personality that are beyond my ken. I strongly suggest further exploration.

Dear Ann Landers: We are good Catholics, have been married 38 years and have a nice big family. My husband took up with a woman named Clara about eight months ago. I don't understand what she sees in him. He is not good looking, has a below-average personality and is 60 years of age. If I were a woman 39 years old I wouldn't look at the old elk a second time, let alone get involved with him.

I need to know if I should talk to my priest about this or would it be better to talk to my eldest son? (My husband has a lot of respect for his boy.) On the other hand maybe I ought to talk to Clara. Please give me your very best advice. I am

Now my dad and brothers are on my back to get back into the game. I really hate cards but they are calling me a lousy sport and it bugs me. What's your advice? —

Care makes trees fruitful

Many factors influence apple production

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Have you ever wondered about the variety of apples for sale in the stores, how they all manage to look so perfect, and how they can be stored so that they are available throughout the year? The following questions may be the very ones you have asked, and the answers may satisfy your curiosity about this delectable fruit.

Are apples grown in every State of the Union? Apple trees cannot be grown to bear fruit efficiently in climates that remain too warm the year around. They need 30 to 60 days of chill weather to shed their leaves and take a winter siesta. Thirty-five states provide the right conditions to grow apples commercially.

After planting, how long does it take before an apple tree bears fruit? A young tree requires from 5 to 6 years of attentive care and growth before it will begin to bear much fruit. In recent years dwarf trees have been developed that start bearing in two or three years — significant quantities in four to five years.

Do apple trees get too old to bear fruit? There are a few trees 150 to 200 years old still bearing apples. However fruit growers keep careful records and accounts which help them determine when trees have passed their prime. The average apple tree will produce good apples 30 to 40 years or more — for as long as it is healthy and properly cared for. Efficiency and economics of care and production usually determine the life of an orchard.

Why have so many of the old time varieties of apples been eliminated? Consumer preference, production and marketing economics determine what varieties of apples are produced. It takes many years and considerable cost to grow apple trees so growers make every effort to find out what consumers will buy as well as the varieties that keep and ship well.

Some people feel apples tasted better when every farm grew some apples, before apple growing became "big business." Has "bigness" taken the taste out of apples? No, not of itself. Many of the varieties grown in years past were very good. But if they were tasted side by side with those grown today they would be considered no better and probably less desirable. Today's growers have a keen knowledge of soil, weather, insect life, plant diseases and all the ramifications of pomology. They are specialists and know how to grow and get quality fruit to market.

Are pesticides used in orchards? Yes. The Food and Drug Administration and the U.S. Department of Agriculture carefully test and regulate what pesticides may be used and the amounts. In most seasons less than five per cent of the fruit on an apple tree would grow to maturity and be acceptable by consumers without pesticides. Have you had a wormy apple in recent years?

Is there a harmful residue left on the apples from the pesticides? No. If any harmful residue (rarely and illegally) is present on apples at harvest ratio in apples is also significant in some cardiac and renal problems as well as in the diets of overweight persons. They contain modest amounts of a number of vitamins and minerals.

RED DELICIOUS — One of the most popular apples, it is sweet and juicy, excellent for snacks and salads, fair for cooking purposes. The Red Delicious is available from September until early summer.

What is the role of apples in dental health? Eating an apple does provide a great assistant for removing foods clinging to teeth. The mild fibrous texture provides detergent action; its juice content, aroma and appeal induce salivary activity. It all adds up to make apples "nature's toothbrush."

What happens to an apple when it's placed in cold storage? Cold storage consists of refrigerated rooms chilled to about 32 degrees F., with high humidity (85 per cent or higher). Low temperature slows the rate of respiration and high humidity prevents evaporation of moisture from the fruit. After an apple is picked from the tree it continues to live and respire, using oxygen and giving off carbon dioxide — just as people do. As a rule of thumb the warmer the temperature the more rapid the respiration — or ripening process — i.e. apples at room temperature ripen at several times the rate they do when refrigerated.

What is CA Storage? Controlled Atmosphere storage combines refrigeration with a controlled atmosphere — reduced oxygen supply and increased carbon dioxide to further slow the metabolic rate of the fruit in storage. This further extends the storage life of the apple.

How is "Controlled Atmosphere" achieved? The apples are stored in an airtight, refrigerated room where they use up part of the oxygen and evolve carbon dioxide until the desired atmosphere level or ratio of oxygen to carbon dioxide is achieved. The proper level is controlled (1) by circulating air in the room through water to remove excess carbon dioxide (called "scrubbing") and (2) by introducing more air into the room if the oxygen level is too low. Low oxygen and high carbon dioxide levels, in addition to refrigeration, slow the rate of respiration. This results in fine, hard, crisp apples into late spring and early summer.

Why do some Controlled Atmosphere and Cold Storage apples seem to taste better than others of the same variety? You can only get out of storage the quality and conditions you put in. When too much time elapses before harvest or between the time of harvest and the time the apples are placed in storage, there may be some loss of flavor and texture of the apple before it gets into storage.

When apples come out of Controlled Atmosphere or Cold Storage, do they ripen faster than freshly harvested apples? Heat is an enemy of apples, whether freshly harvested or out of cold storage. A properly harvested apple kept at room temperature becomes overripe and mealy after a few days. Apples respire or ripen in cold storage too, but at a slower rate. Thus after several weeks in storage they have fewer prime condition days left than do apples freshly harvested in the fall.

How should apples be stored in the home? They should be kept in a plastic bag or the hydrator of the refrigerator. Refrigeration not only prevents decay; it slows maturation and helps to maintain quality, juiciness and crispness.

What are the leading varieties of apples in the United States? Fourteen varieties account for about 90 per cent of the commercial U.S. apple production. In order of volume produced they are: Delicious, Golden Delicious, McIntosh, Rome Beauty, Jonathan, York Imperial, Stayman, Winesap, Newton Pippin, Cortland, Rhode Island Greening, Northern Spy, Gravenstein, Baldwin.

GRAVESTINE — A tart and juicy fruit, the Gravenstein is great for all culinary and salad uses but only fair for baking. Wonderful for snacks, it is available from August until early fall.

ROME BEAUTY — This variety has a very mild flavor. It is excellent for baking and all culinary uses, fair for snacks and salads. It is available from October until early summer.

Yet another shortage: Horseradish

By BRUCE KOON
Dow Jones-Ottaway News

Roast-beef and sushi eaters may not relish the thought, but there may be a horseradish shortage next year. Drought and a beetle-borne virus have wiped out about half the 1975 horseradish yield in Southern Illinois, where two-thirds of the nation's horseradish crop is grown. The resulting $750,000 loss to some 80 growers won't affect this year's supply. But lovers of the pungent root may have to muster up new ways to flavor certain foods next year.

Bicycle carriers

Bicycle carriers are the subject of a new National Highway Traffic Safety Administration safety proposal. It would require that bicycles carried on cars and other vehicles be installed so as to minimize hazards to pedestrians.

The proposal includes reducing or eliminating sharp edges on mounting hardware and limiting the length of carrier support arms. The federal agency invites comments on the proposal. Write: Docket Safety Administration, Room 5108, 400 7th St. S.W., Washington, D.C. 20590.

Sex after 65

Sex among older persons is often considered not "nice" or "normal." But in fact it not only is normal but often healthy, according to some gerontologists and psychiatrists. The myths and facts concerning sexual activity among older adults are discussed in a new pamphlet, "Sex after Sixty-Five."

The pamphlet explores the physiological and psychological effects of aging, and how they affect sexual performance and pleasure. It also discusses attitudes of society, doctors, and older adults themselves. It is available for 35 cents from the Public Affairs Committee, 381 Park Ave. South, New York City 10016.

Backyard gardens

Home gardeners probably are eying the approach of autumn with concern if some of their tomatoes haven't ripened yet. A county farm agent offers this tip: Place fairly mature but unripened tomatoes in a sealed plastic bag with a banana. The banana gives off ethylene gas, which ripens tomatoes in a day of two. Apples straight off the tree can also be ripened this way.

Grocery carts

Grocery carts need government safety standards, says a public health official. Dr. Edward Press, an Oregon state health officer, has told the Consumer Products Safety Commission that accidents in grocery carts send 8,000 to 9,000 children to the hospital each year and cause finger amputations, limb and skull fractures, and concussions.

In his petition to the commission, as reported in the official newspaper of the American Public Health Association, Press suggests that carts be constructed with a lower center of gravity to prevent them from tipping over and that children be placed in a stroller-type seat in the lower front of the cart, reducing a potential fall to a few inches.

Phone answering device

Your recorded message on your home telephone could be your undoing. A clothes designer, for example, took a two-week trip to Las Vegas. He left word on his telephone answering device so his friends would not worry. While he was gone they are subject to seizure and destruction. Very nearly all apples are washed or brushed prior to marketing which provides a still further safeguard.

Are apples waxed before shipping? Is the wax harmful? If you have observed an orchard during rain you've noticed that water does not cling to apples on trees. They produce a natural wax that helps in reducing moisture loss and helps to protect the fruit from insect and disease injury. However a percentage of apples marketed are given an additional thin coat of wax which is harmless and edible. When used it is added only to improve the attractiveness of the apples.

How can consumers be assured that purchased apples are safe for eating? Wash the apple. This removes bacteria or dirt or other foreign material incident to handling and marketing.

What is the caloric content of an average size apple? Around 80-90 calories.

What nutritional claims can be made for apples? Apples provide bulk in the diet for proper functioning of the body's digestive and regulatory systems. Pectin and hemi-cellulose plus acid and alkaline balance contribute to this. They are also catalytic and contribute to fighting body toxins, aiding digestion, and pepping up the entire system. They are an excellent source of pectin which is associated with helping keep cholesterol levels in balance. (This relationship is felt to be significant in helping to prevent or reduce the dangers of coronary heart disease.) The relatively high potassium and low sodium

One of the most rapidly growing industries today is that of frozen convenience foods. The increase in the use of these foods is mainly due to a change in food consumption habits. And the use of convenience food items by food services has increased because they reduce labor costs, are faster to prepare, and allow for quicker service.

The popularity of these foods has led researchers at the Pennsylvania State University's Food Microbiology Research Laboratory to investigate the possibility of their contributing to the incidence of food poisoning cases.

"Staph" food poisoning, found to be the most common cause of food-borne illness in this country, usually involves raw, pre-cooked and protein-containing products which would become contaminated prior, during, or after processing. The "staph" growth and toxin production could also take place during the time elapsed between cooking, freezing, and packaging.

According to Dr. Kurosh Ostovar, Assistant Professor of Food Science at Penn State, microbiological quality of frozen food items has been studied by other scientists. Some have reported the presence of "staph" in certain of these food items. However, the effect of possible defrosting of the product during transportation or at supermarkets, or possibly mishandling by consumers, has not been fully investigated.

At the Penn State laboratory a total of 480 commercially produced frozen food items bought from local supermarkets were examined. The products included four different brands of beef, poultry, fish, and frozen, ready-to-eat desserts. Each frozen package was aseptically opened for sampling, sealed, placed at room temperature and examined at three-hour intervals for a period of 12 hours.

Results indicated that thawing the products at room temperature for 12 hours generally resulted in a noticeable increase in "staph" population.

The Penn State food scientist says it's important to note that such prolonged thawing which resulted in increased numbers of "staph" could lead to a production of more harmful toxins which would be impossible to eliminate with ordinary cooking practices.

Although it's the responsibility of the food industry to prevent contamination of food products by good manufacturing practices, consumers should handle food carefully, use clean equipment and working surfaces, and observe personal cleanliness habits when handling food. It's also important that consumers follow manufacturer's directions for storing and preparing frozen food products.

New York's Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — The $40-a-ticket, two-week concert at the Uris Theater bills its stars in this order: Ella Fitzgerald, Count Basie and Frank Sinatra: so in that order, Ella remains the finest jazz, pop, ballad, bossa nova or free style singer in the world; Count Basie's polite piano tinklings are inspired contrast to the galvanic thunder his rrrrrreal-big band explodes; Sinatra opening night was in his best voice in years, a welcome return from the tonal embarrassments inflicted in his ABC-TV special from Madison Square Garden a season ago, lower tones deep and pliantly leathery and fine, a bit reedy in the upper scale, startlingly beefy of face and facade, a bit over-acting in his serious love songs, interrupting what occasionally was a stylish delivery with cheap Las Vegas interpolations into originally fine and tasteful lyrics written by some of the greatest manipulators of elegant words, such as Cole Porter, who never did want Sinatra to cheapen his superb and precise verbal constructions; but Sinatra can no more help himself rise to elegance than he can quit catering to the crap shooters, the losers, the brassy ringsiders of his more natural nightclub habits. But the voice was there again, nearer to his best years than anything he's done the last dozen.

Ella Fitzgerald's presence, her songs and her happy, easy, refined melodic totality were what only may be called collectively high style. Count Basie opened the program for a dozen minutes of instrumentals, collectively atomic balm; Ella and Sinatra followed with 45-minute solo turns with a big stage band; Sinatra added another 20 strings — a dozen violins, four violas, four celli — to the 20-piece Basie orchestra. Both soloists brought along a rhythm nucleus, all splendid; But Basie's wildly hair-shaking blond drummer won individual percussion honors — for virtuoso drumfire and showmanship; Buddy Rich herein is on notice from now on he may not be the champion of combined percussion and egocentricity. This lad has it, in spades.

Henny Youngman during his Dial-a-Joke month and the phone company admitted 3,331,638 (and still won't pay Henny more than $2,500 for second laugharound). Henny said he asked for a mere 5-g... When Revlon founder Charles Revson died, ex-wife Lyn's $250,000 a year alimony stopped. Charles left Lyn $2,000,000 of the approximately $98,000,000 in his will plus the sugary lump sum he stirred her way when they soured... Yma Sumac, who sings so high only Brazilian birds can hear her, high-Cs into the Chateau Madrid Sept. 23; Yma also turned songwriter: "Amada Mia" will be in her act.

Someone rubbed Shelley Winters and director Al Morganstern together and they've been flinging flames at each other since... Glenda Jackson's husband Roy Hodges named London stage lighting designer Andrew Phillips the co-respondent in their X-rated divorce.

Jimmy Shelton (you older sentimentalists hugged and sighed to his "A Boy, a Girl, a Lamplight" especially when Skinnay Ennis sang it with Hal Kemp's band; died without even an obit a few days ago in Miami Heart Institute; he'd been writing the upcoming Gleason-Art Carney "Honey-mooners" 25th anniversary revival special to be taped next month. Jimmy was a kid actor at five (in "Over the Hill" with Mary Carr); rec'd early encouragement from Fred Astaire, who not only is but helpfully recognized class; was in the '37 "New Faces." with Henry Fonda, Jack Smart and Imogene Coca; wrote special material for Libby Holman, Eartha Kitt, Phyllis Diller and special stuff for Gleason's variety-show guests; a nice, gentle showman who died too young at 62.

Paul Newman bought a lotta land next to his Westport, Conn., estate and is building a new house (with fine old wood from a dilapidated New Hampshire barn); builder is Joe DeJesus, who wed brilliant Bambi Lynn, who lit up the choreographic skies in "Oklahoma," and starred as "Alice in Wonderland" in a long forgotten musical with a score by "Laura" composer David Rakusin... Tiny Tim's ex "Miss Vicki" confessed in Qui rag she's been living the last year with Amos Levy, who once toiled for Tiny.

Swallowed Iye

The small child of a friend of ours swallowed some lye. She's terribly sick. Do you think there will be permanent damage to her insides?

Mrs. G.S., Ore.

Dear Mrs. S.:

The damage done by lye to the delicate lining of the mouth and the esophagus can be great.

This depends on the amount of lye that was swallowed and how long it was in contact with these tissues.

Lye produces a burn that often results in stricture, or narrowing, of the esophagus — the tube that carries the food from the mouth to the stomach.

It is difficult to anticipate the permanent changes that can occur.

Fortunately, these serious accidents are occurring less frequently than they did years ago. People have been practicing prevention.

Never fill a milk container or soda pop bottle with any dangerous substance. Curious children are attracted by the easily recognized bottle and have no sense of judgment about what it contains.

The original containers of pesticides, household cleaning substances, garden sprays and the like must be kept out of the tempting reach of children.

"I didn't know that he could get into that closet" is another variation of "I didn't know the gun was loaded."

SPEAKING OF YOUR

HEALTH... Your dentist, an important part of the health team, should be given your complete medical history as part of his records.

DR. COLEMAN welcomes letters from readers, and, while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of The Pocono Record.

FALLING: (Q.) I'm falling in love with Heather's boy friend. Heather is my best friend. She thinks his love for her is strong but it isn't. I know, because I hang around them all the time.

He tells me all his problems and tells me not to tell anyone about us and I don't. I don't want to hurt Heather. Tell me what to do.

Nervous in New York

(A.) Do not hang around Heather and her friend. When they are together, let them be together.

Do not have secret sessions with the boy. Even if you say nothing about them, the news will get out and Heather will find out you are trying to take her boy friend away from her. That is what you are trying to do, isn't it?

If he prefers you, let him ask you honorably and openly for dates. Not on the sneak, not in secret. That knowledge may hurt Heather, but not as much as what is going on now between you and her boy friend.

BRACELET: (Q.) I met Tim at a store two weeks ago and, we have had two dates. He asked me for my bracelet and I gave it to him. He said he couldn't give me his senior ring because his parents wouldn't let him give it away.

Since I gave him the bracelet I have heard that he is going with two other girls and doesn't want me to know. So now I don't know what my bracelet means to him and I am too chicken to ask him. What else can I do?

Not OK in Ok Oklahoma

(A.) Tim didn't play fair with you and exchange a token for a token. He may not be playing fair with you in other ways. The only way for you to find out is to face up to him and ask him what the score is.

If it looks as bad to you then as it looks to me now, ask for the bracelet back. If he says no, tell your parents about the whole incident.

ABC-TV sports boss Roone Arledge and his beautiful Anne were wed quietly last weekend right on the beach in the Hamptons... Dionysos nightclub owner Georgia Zambasis' flat was heisted of $85,000 in gems... The "My Fair Lady" producer Herman Levins were divorced... Candy Bergen skulked into "21" in a red Chinese jacket, black pants and hair all-a-coolie-queue; her escort Andy Warhol was completely disguised in a proper suit and necktie and who'd recognize him that way; unless his prism pallor gave him away... Their pals think delightful Chita Rivera and showbiz restaurateur Joe Allen aren't foolin'; no schoolboy crushes — both are 42... Rich boutique owner Tommy de Maio bought a retired New Orleans ferryboat with plans to dock it alongside Manhattan as a "glamorous floating show-place."

Need an Electric Water Heater Replacement?

HERE'S A CHANGE THAT MAKES SENSE

WELL INSULATED TO SAVE ENERGY

80-GALLON
CAPACITY

THERMOSTAT SET
NO HIGHER THAN 140°

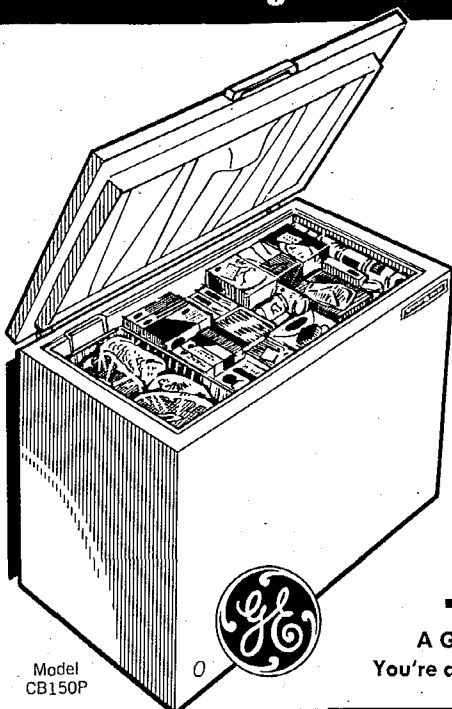

Not all electric water heaters are the same. Some use more electricity than others. Why? Mainly because they come in different types and sizes.

Take an 80-gallon low-wattage tank for example. Who would ever believe that each year it can operate on less electricity than the smaller quick recovery type most commonly used. It's true! And the better the tank is insulated and the lower the temperature setting, the more economical it will be. What's more, while it reheats water at a slower rate, its larger size can deliver all the hot water your family will normally need.

It's something to think about at replacement time. After all, because water heaters serve the whole family, 24 hours a day all year round, they are big energy users.

Why are we telling you all this? To help hold electricity use down. We don't sell electric water heaters... it's just that if you have one that needs replacement, an 80-gallon, low-wattage tank would be a good choice for you!

The bidding:

Opening lead — five of hearts.

It is said that every weapon devised by the wit of man sooner or later leads to an effective counter-weapon that acts as an equalizer. I don't know whether this is literally true or not, but I do know there are many situations that arise in bridge where the equivalent principle applies.

This deal occurred in a team of four match. At the first table, West led a heart. East took dummy's queen with the king and returned a heart to the ace.
Declarer played a low club to the ten, losing to West's jack, and West returned a heart to South's jack.

South now played the king of clubs, overtook it in dummy with the ace and, with East's queen falling on the trick, he was able to run dummy's clubs and make four notrump.

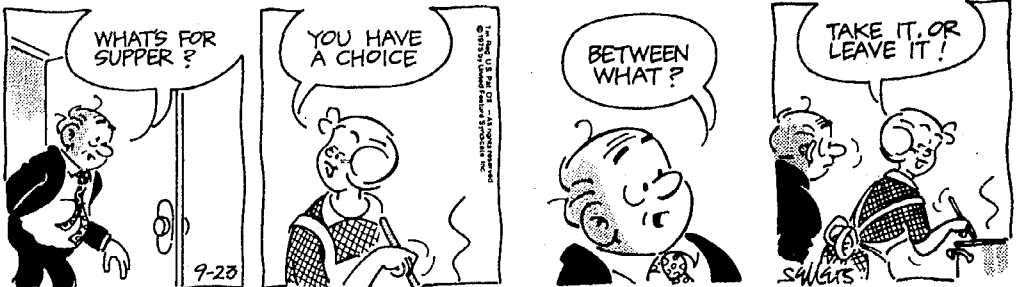

The same contract was defeated at the second table after a heart lead by West and a heart return by East to dummy's ace. Again declarer played a low club to the ten, but here West allowed South's ten to win the trick! As a result of this unusual play, declarer could not run dummy's clubs and wound up going down two.

Both declarers were very much on their toes in playing the clubs as they did. They realized that their best chance for the contract was to find East with the Q-x or J-x of clubs, in which case they would score five club tricks after losing the ten to West's jack or queen.

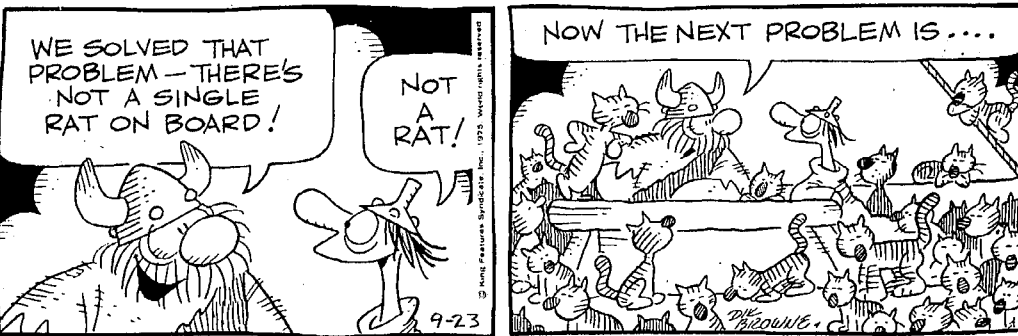

The second declarer suffered a considerable setback by running into unusually tight defense. At this table West found the right counter-weapon to resist South's method of attack. West sacrificed a club trick by refusing to win the ten, but he got back three tricks in exchange.

Born in Stroudsburg, he was a son of the late William R. and Bertha (Stem) Schick. He retired about two years ago from the Singer Co. in Wayne, N.J. and was a member of the Bethoven Lodge 154 of the Patterson New Jersey Masonic Order.

In addition to his widow, he is survived by a brother William Jr. of Stroudsburg and a number of nieces and nephews. Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Wednesday in the Browning Forshay Funeral Home, 557 Lafayette Ave., Hawthorne, N.J.

Burial will be in the George Washington Memorial Cemetery, Paramus, N.J. There will be no viewing.

EAST STROUDSBURG — The local hospital has enough drugs to care for 500 people in case of an emergency.

Although a spokesman for the General Hospital of Monroe County said it was "hard to conjecture" a disaster of that size, the hospital is ready to cope with casualties from an earthquake, fire, flood or other catastrophe.

An Ohio doctor estimated there aren't enough painkilling drugs in hospital supplies to last more than a few hours if there were a national emergency.

However, the hospital spokesman said the hospital's pharmacy has adequate supplies of pain-killers and other medicines "for practically any emergency."

Although the hospital refused to release the amount of drugs available for security reasons, the spokesman did say the hospital has a large supply of a variety of pain-killers.

"We have enough to last a reasonable time until we can be re-supplied. We're not going to be caught short," he stated.

Supplies could be flown into the area if land vehicles couldn't get through, he explained.

The hospital keeps a supply of drugs to last two weeks under normal conditions and will be able to enlarge this to a 45 to 60 day supply when the new warehouse is completed in the current expansion project.

Enough medicines are available to treat about 500 people in an emergency while the hospital has enough food to feed 400 people for about three days.

Suppliers of pharmaceuticals and general medical supplies would be responsible to get needed supplies to the hospital.

If the hospital needed more blood, it would appeal to the Red Cross in Wilkes-Barre, then to the Miller Memorial Blood Center in Bethlehem and then to Philadelphia.

Other hospitals would also be contacted for any needed supplies and assistance.

The spokesman explained that during the 1972 flood, the Wilkes-Barre hospitals "put out calls in all directions" for supplies.

If there were a large number of victims with similar problems which the hospital couldn't handle, the patients would be transported to another facility.

For example, if there were an explosion or fire and many burn victims were brought to the hospital, the patients' conditions would be stabilized and then they would be transferred, possibly to Allentown Sacred Heart Burn Center, the spokesman explained.

The hospital also has access to a 200-bed field hospital stored at East Stroudsburg State College and a second 200-bed field hospital at Pleasant Valley Manor.

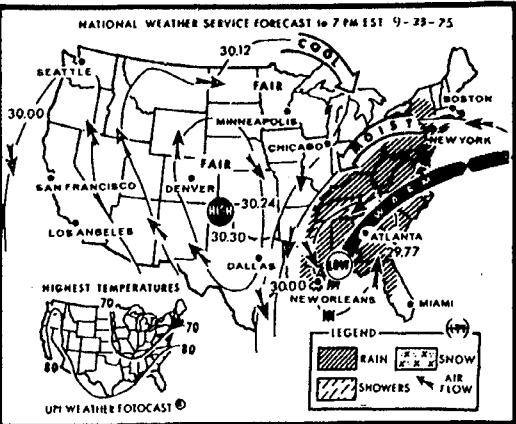

The field hospitals include surgical supplies, such as instruments, pins and plates; bandages and wound dressings.

They don't contain any narcotics, however. The spokesman explained that all narcotics were removed a few years ago after other locations in the country reported their supplies had been "pilfered."

In a large scale disaster, the spokesman said the hospital would turn to the Civil Defense, National Guard and Red Cross for help.

Each year the hospital has two disaster drills to prepare for any emergency. One drill has been rescheduled for Nov. 2.

The hospital will have only one drill this year because a pickup truck accident on July 4 that sent 11 people to the hospital was classified as a disaster by Dr. William Rodgers, chairman of the disaster committee.

Finances, conservation delay nuclear power plant

EASTON — Delaying for at least 10 years construction of a $60 million nuclear power generating plant near Portland was a result of many factors, according to a utility spokesman.

Gerald Parks, spokesman for Metropolitan Edison Co. (Met-Ed), said Monday economic factors and consumer conservation contributed to postponing construction until after 1989.

The plant had been proposed to be put into operation by 1989, with construction beginning late this decade.

"Our entire construction budget was set back a number of years," Parks said. "Not only generating facilities but the addition of new lines and substations."

Met-Ed already has a two-unit coal fired generating station about a mile south of Portland. The proposed nuclear power plant would nearly triple the plant's present 410 megawatt capacity.

The main reason for the deferring of construction at Portland was financial, Parks said.

"It was primarily because of the short supply of available money, coupled with inadequate rate relief and the cost of financing," Parks explained.

Parks said the state Public Utility Commission's failure to act favorably upon Met-Ed's rate increase filed in July, 1974 has resulted in the company being unable to pay for its recently-opened Three Mile Island nuclear power plant.

"Three Mile Island is supplying one-third of the power used by our customers, yet they are not yet paying the bill for building the plant. There are millions and millions of dollars we can't recover because of no rate recognition," Parks said.

"And as a final reason, but not the only reason, because of the economical situation, whereby people, residential and industrial customers, are generally using less power, which fortunately gives us the ability to delay projects such as Portland."

The Portland nuclear plant was one of the six announced deferrals or cancellations released Monday by the Delaware River Basin Commission in an updated power plant siting study.

Included in the list was a proposed pumped-storage facility for along the Delaware River at Kittatinny Mountain, in an area once planned for the Tocks Island Lake project.

The 1,300 megawatt project will not be built now, according to a river basin commission spokesman, because "it appears Tocks Island is about to be scrapped."

In the river commission study, compiled by 10 New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware electric utilities, projections of future power needs have been cut back from estimates made in 1972 and 1974.

"This is due to the economy and conservation, which are related," Parks said.

"Fortunately this gives us the ability to meet power needs without construction of new plants. Any construction we might have in mind will have to wait until after 1980 now.

"That means power generation levels will remain the same until at least 1990 as it historically takes 10 years to build a nuclear power plant and about the same time for a fossil fuel burning plant," Parks said.

Parks added future growth without relief from new plants will mean cutting down the utility's power reserve — a 20 per cent figure requested by state and federal agencies.

"The reserve is for meeting peak loads and to help out other members of the power grid if there is a large generating facility down," Parks said.

Parks said utilities in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and Washington, D.C. are part of the same grid, swapping electricity to meet demands local generating plants cannot meet.

FIRE TRUCK DEDICATION — Members of the Stroudsburg Fire Department turned out Monday night to honor the late Allen Zahorick, a former member of the Phoenix Company who died in March. A plaque inscribed with Zahorick's

Possible competitor helped design plan requirements

STROUDSBURG — Comprehensive county land use plan requirements written two years ago by former planning administrator Douglas Williams and engineer Leo Achterman Jr. are being used to solicit new proposals.

Acting planning administrator Vincent Feeney said Monday the original work description was written by Williams and Achterman and approved by the Monroe County Planning Commission.

The commission voted at its Sept. 15 meeting to allow Achterman to submit a proposal for the contract, stating there was no conflict of interest.

Achterman is the engineering consultant for the planning commission.

Planning commission solicitor William Robinson Jr., who was asked for a legal opinion on a possible conflict of interest, said he still hasn't reached a decision.

Robinson said Monday he has looked into Achterman's participation on the work description as a possible conflict but has "discovered nothing" to indicate a conflict.

Although he was unable to say when his opinion would be delivered to the commission, he said it would be soon.

William Hopkins, of Hess Associates, consultants for the county, said he isn't aware of a time when the firm prepared a scope of services for the county for the purpose of receiving proposals and then submitted one of its own.

However, Hopkins added he didn't think it would be unethical for Achterman to submit a proposal when he had partly written the scope because the planners would see any weaknesses in the scope when comparing proposals.

Planners agreed to advertise for proposals on the plan and had received 10 by Monday and were expecting more, Feeney said.

Elaborations on the original descriptions were made when the contract was awarded in January, 1974, to Richard S. Cowan, of Quakertown, for $29,974.

The commission rejected his plan after Cowan submitted it five months late and after he was paid $13,000.

Feeney said Cowan was told his work was unsatisfactory and instructed not to do anything more on it.

The comprehensive plan is supposed to cover all requirements necessary for the approval of subdivision lands or properties.

"It will be the Bible on which the planning commission will determine whether a development should be approved by the planning commission or the municipality," he stated.

The work to be covered in the plan includes:

- Planning and technical review of the transportation system, including existing and proposed expansion of roads, railroads and airports.
- Planning and technical review of water sheds, including maps, charts and exhibits of water sources, flood plains and proposed flood control projects.
- Planning and technical review of public utility systems, including a list of all public utilities, their lines of wires and proposed expansion.

- Planning and technical review of soil systems, including a field examination and listing of agricultural land.
- Planning and technical review of existing land use, including charts of public and private lands, urbanized areas and leisure home areas.
- Planning and technical review of comprehensive plans, zoning ordinances and subdivision ordinances.
- Planning and technical review of leisure home communities, including maps, interviews with residents, and any trends.
- Planning and technical review of population projections.
- Planning and technical review of income and economics, including per capita, industrial and commercial.

- Planning and technical review of sewage facilities.
- Preparation of constraint map, including a map of floodplains, swamps, slopes, rock outcropping and soils suitable and unsuitable for various types of development.

The firm compiling the study is also to submit a written report with recommendations about deficiencies of existing county and municipal ordinances, proposed improvements to ordinances and implementation of the plan.

hard by these difficulties. Neither the utility nor its customers had any control over these factors," according to the report, which added that these problems created "a significant impact on . . . the cost" of coal.

Resulting higher prices were passed along to utility customers, the report said.

"With the vast majority of Met Ed's coal needs being shipped by rail, Met Ed was completely dependent upon the railroad and its equipment," according to the report, which added:

"Even though Met Ed and its fuel suppliers had agreed to all necessary terms, entire purchases had to be canceled because of the absence of (railroad) cars for the coal deliveries. At other times, the railroad would supply only a fraction of the cars necessary for the scheduled shipment."

Armed robbers draw two to five years

STROUDSBURG — Two East Stroudsburg men who were convicted in April of armed robbery, were sentenced to serve two-and-a-half to five years in prison Monday by a Monroe County Court judge.

Tyrone Davis and William Spencer were ordered remanded to the state correctional facility at Dallas for processing by President Judge Arlington W. Williams.

Davis was given credit for 17 days served and Spencer for 140 days.

The pair was convicted by a jury on April 9 in the armed robbery of the A-OK Market, Rte.

402 in Marshalls Creek. About $600 was taken from the store during the Nov. 17, 1974 hold-up.

Testimony during the trial showed Spencer and Davis used a sawed-off shotgun and a hunting knife in the robbery.

A third person involved in the robbery, Lenio Howard of East Stroudsburg who drove the get-away car, testified against Davis and Spencer. The indictment against Howard was quashed.

In other matters, Bruce Ibaugh Jr. of Anolomink was fined $300 and placed on probation for a year by Judge Williams. Ibaugh pleaded guilty Aug. 2 to recklessly endangering another person in connection with an incident June 8 in Anolomink.

In a juvenile matter Monday, a 17-year-old Stroudsburg boy was placed on a year's probation and ordered to make restitution. He was apprehended for burglary in Northampton County but was certified up to Monroe County Court.

In other matters, a 15-year-old Stroudsburg girl was determined to be a deprived child and was placed in a juvenile home in Philadelphia.

Sen. Hobbs opposes Denenberg

OTTAWA NEWS SERVICE
Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — State Sen. Frederick H. Hobbs said Monday he would again oppose consumer advocate Herbert Denenberg if Gov. Milton J. Shapp renominated him to the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission.

"My position hasn't changed," Hobbs said Monday. "I voted against him before. I'll vote against him this time."

The governor announced recently he may resubmit Denenberg's nomination to the Senate, which rejected the original nomination several months ago.

Denenberg told a news conference Monday he is "considering" allowing Shapp to renominate him.

"Truthfully, I'm surprised Mr. Denenberg would allow himself to be placed in that position. I think he's being used as a pawn" by Shapp, Hobbs said.

A Schuylkill County Republican, Hobbs represents part of the Poconos in the state Senate.

Better split for elderly supported

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Office for the Aging will have the support of the county commissioners in seeking more of the 1976 Tri-County Area Agency on Aging (AAA) budget.

Mrs. Martha Kitchen and Fred Lee, co-chairmen of the county aging program, Monday asked the commissioners to support a move to split 1976 funds according to the state's formula of 39 per cent for Monroe and Wayne and 22 per cent for Pike County.

The budget proposed by Paul Summer, director of the AAA, gave Wayne County a 41 per cent slice of the funds, Monroe 34 per cent and Pike 25 per cent. The total AAA budget for next year is $567,000.

The commissioners are to vote Thursday to support a change in the allocation of funds.

State rules may dunk intramural coaching

EAST STROUDSBURG — An East Stroudsburg school director is worried about violating state regulations by allowing a varsity coach to run an intramural basketball program.

Board member Walter Stem Monday questioned whether the board should hire varsity basketball coach Scott Beeten to coach a new co-ed intramural program for grades 9-12.

Stem said he thought Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Assn. (PIAA) regulations prohibited coaches from holding organized practices before the start of the season.

District Superintendent Dr. Robert M. Bookbinder said he doubted any varsity players would be in the intramural program, since that program is mainly for students who don't go out for varsity athletics.

Stem opposed hiring Beeten for the intramural program, but the other eight board members approved.

The issue illuminates a problem of hiring coaches the district is facing. Bookbinder said. The state is urging districts to increase the number of girls sports and intramural programs, but East Stroudsburg is having trouble finding enough coaches to fill the slots.

As a consequence, the board hired two part-time teachers to coach four sports, something administrators said was frowned on by PIAA a few years ago.

Hired were Mrs. Sandra M. Diehl, a part-time mathematics teacher, as assistant varsity girls basketball coach, and Mrs. Eileen F. Koch, part-time physical education teacher, as coach of girls gymnastics, track and as assistant coach of girls field hockey.

In other business, the board approved a request by the East Stroudsburg High School Band to appear on Nov. 30 for pre-game and half-time festivities at the Philadelphia Eagles-San Francisco Forty-Niners football game in Philadelphia. The Eagles will pay for transportation, and the band and mothers for other expenses.

The board will also allow the East Stroudsburg High School Wind Ensemble to perform at the State Conference of the Pennsylvania Music Educators Assn. Jan. 10, 1976.

Monroe candidates do not feel union is necessary

STROUDSBURG — Three of the four candidates for county commissioner do not feel it is necessary for county employees to unionize.

The issue of unionization was raised by Democrat Stuart Pipher, a candidate for county commissioner, Saturday night while he was acting as toastmaster for a Central Labor Union banquet. Pipher is president of that organization.

At present, only county employees at Pleasant Valley Manor, Inc., are members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME). Courthouse and jail employees are not members.

Pipher said at the banquet, "I hope county employees can be affiliated and organized."

Expanding on his remarks Monday, Pipher said he was "not advocating it (unionization), but if it comes about, I'm not against it."

The candidate said one of the advantages to the county of unionization would be having "one time to negotiate instead of all the piecemeal."

Asked what the effect on the county budget would be, Pipher said, "I don't think we'd be any worse off than we are now."

He explained unionization would mean job descriptions would be formalized and employees would have to "perform to that or else."

"I just feel if it comes about, I'm not getting excited about it. Once the smoke clears, we'll find out we're just as well off or better off," he concluded.

Republican commissioner candidate Jesse Pierson said, "I'm not opposed to unionization but I think that we ought to make certain the benefits are such that a union is not necessary."

Pierson, the top vote-getter in the primary election, said county employees' salaries should be competitive with similar jobs in private industries.

The candidate said he was formerly personnel representative for Sears' eastern territory, and as such is familiar with the "benefits and pitfalls" of unionization.

"Because of the diverse activities filled by county employes, it's possible we could have complicated problems, such as those involving supervision," he said.

Pierson said, "I don't think supervisors should be unionized."

Incumbent Republican County Commissioner Mrs. Nancy Shukaitis said, "In a small rural county, a union should not be needed in the courthouse. I think it's entirely up to the employees, it's a personal decision."

She continued, "The county commissioners are doing everything we can to make working conditions and pay scales appropriate. Generally speaking I don't feel most (employees) feel a need for a union."

If the county employees did unionize, Mrs. Shukaitis said she would "live with it. It's their decision."

However, she said, "From past experience in observing the state I have no doubt it (unionization) has an adverse effect on the budget and a more adverse effect on the taxpayers."

Arlington Martin, the Democratic incumbent commissioner, agreed with Mrs. Shukaitis.

"I don't think they'd benefit from it," he said, "If they wanted to, there's nothing we could do about it."

He differed from the others, however, by saying, "I don't think I would encourage it. I wouldn't say don't do it or do it, but I would point out the benefits and liabilities."

With a union, he said, jobs are spelled out specifically. If a person is not doing his job, "you can do something about it."

Martin said it is often easier to talk to an employee who has a grievance directly rather than having to go through a union steward.

He said he considered the imposition of a "chain of command" — where an employee could no longer go to a commissioner with a problem directly — a "loss of freedom" for the employee.

"With the first year of Pleasant Valley Manor the first demands (for wages) were sky high, but in the end they didn't gain an awful lot," the commissioner noted.

Jack Kist had done some thinking about how big the night they tossed for him Saturday night would be. "I didn't think it would be that big," he said. "I just couldn't believe it."

He was wrong about its size. "It was a great night, no question about that," he laughed Monday. "I couldn't ask for a nicer night. I was completely surprised at the extent they went to."

Kist received a $1,000 government bond, a stereo music center, a $100 gift certificate, a scholarship set up in his name by the East Stroudsburg Area School District and a large oil portrait of himself.

"I didn't pose for that," he said. "It's a big thing. It looks about four or five feet or something. I have no room for it in my house because the walls aren't that big," he said, laughing.

The way the portrait was done was sneaky.

"Remember when we had that presentation with Mrs. Marty Baldwin at the Thanksgiving game last year?" he asked. "Well, that picture you took with myself and Wayne Hulsizer (Stroudsburg athletic director) dedicating the Little Brown Jug was the picture they used to paint the portrait."

"That was very sneaky. 'It's hard to do off a picture,'" Kist said. "But it was very, very good." He's donated it to the school and it should be hung in a prominent place.

Highlights of his life

A guy like Jack Kist has had a lot of highlights in his life, a lot of thrills. He was going over them Saturday when Wilson and East Stroudsburg rolled onto the field and maybe the crowd got its eyes off Jack for a while.

"The first was when I was old enough to realize what a lovely mother and father and two sisters I had," Kist said. "The second was when I married my wife Arlene. The third was each day one of my children was born and the fourth was when I acquired my two sons-in-law and my daughter-in-law."

"This ranks somewhat close," he continued. "I was completely surprised. There just wasn't much you could say. Then we had a great time at the Penn Stroud. It was just hard to describe. I guess I realized it more Sunday."

But Jack knew who was in charge and that gave him some hint. "I know those guys and they do it big," he laughed. "They were always involved with the Varsity E and they do it up big. But I never suspected it would be that size."

Coat not big enough

Speaking of size, Kist got another gift he can put to good use. It was a $100 gift certificate to a clothing store in the Lehigh Valley.

"They had called my wife to see if I needed a watch, but she told them I already had a very good one," Kist explained. "Then she mentioned that I had been to this store a few times and had talked about this real nice coat I saw there for sale."

"So they gave me a gift certificate to the store so I could get the coat," he said. "That was very nice of them."

No matter what size the coat is, it will have to be let out to fit a big guy like Jack Kist.

Cavaliers were flexible

Saturday night's 14-7 victory over Wilson may have been the fact that proved East Stroudsburg's ability to change a game plan quickly.

"We thought we could go outside on them" was the way Cavaliers' coach Dick Merring explained the game plan. But Wilson spread its defenses and a change had to be made. It was.

"We changed when they gave us the inside," Merring explained. "When it's there you have to take it. But we'll go to any offense we have to." With the offensive potential they have, that's just about anything.

What helped the inside game go was the contribution by Glenn Steimling. "He ran very well," Merring said. "Maybe they keyed on Dave (Beck) so Glenn's running opened up a lot for us."

Overall, Merring's goal is twofold, but it all revolves around one area. He wants to strengthen his defense but he also wants to get more players going just one way.

"Our defense is improving every week," he said, "but my main aim is to get more players going just one way. We just don't seem to have enough people yet to keep some from going both ways."

Knights had advantage

Last year it seemed every team had some sort of advantage over Pen Argyl. This year, or Saturday anyway, that may have changed.

"We had the numbers this time," Green Knights' coach Dick Bowman said after a thrilling 28-27 victory. "We never quit. The second half we just wore 'em down."

The team which was out-manned was Palisades, but not before Pirate quarterback Kevin Burke put on an aerial show seldom seen on the high school level. He completed 20 of 32 passes for 329 yards and four touchdowns, all to end Jim Kacergis.

"That's a hell of a combination," Bowman said. "They have the end and the quarterback, but their line may be a bit thin. They have a good team and they should be convinced of that. Unfortunately, they lost and we won."

Pen Argyl won by scoring more points than it did all last year. A year ago the Green Knights had only 20 points in a dismal 1-9 season.

"A mental block kept us from scoring early in this game," Bowman explained, talking of two fumbles that killed drives. "We panicked then, but not at the end. A mental block is better than a 6-5 defense."

But a victory is better than a loss, too.

Bears: A team effort

Pleasant Valley continues to surprise a lot of people as the Bears are now 3-0 after a 14-6 win over an improved Palmerton team. In fact, 15 of 16 "experts" picked the Bears to lose. Guess who the smart guy was?

Anyway, coach Tony Caracio was happy. "It was a good overall team effort," he said. "I thought it would be a tough game. But our defense played tough when they had to. It was more rock-em, sock-em football than finesse."

This week it's Notre Dame of Green Pond, 2-0 after beating Wilson and Pius X. "We need a better effort to win this one," Caracio remarked. "It will be a tough game."

The Bears had field position problems Friday night. "We had one offensive series where we started at about our 25 and took it down to score," Caracio said, "but we hadn't shown any real consistency to that point. We really had no field position."

He thinks he knows why, too. "With the exchange of punts, it seemed we were losing yardage," he explained. "That's not our punter's fault, but rather it's our fault because maybe we were letting too many punts go. In the second half we started fielding them and the position improved."

Raider machine drowns Dolphins, 31-21

MIAMI (UPI) — Ten-year veteran Pete Banaszak led a throng of Oakland power runners with two touchdowns Monday night and the Raider defense held off a late Miami Dolphins' rally for a 31-21 nationally televised victory.

Banaszak, replacing Marv Hubbard who was injured early in the game, leaped into the end zone from the two and the one yard lines to give the Raiders a commanding 17-7 halftime lead. Second year running back Harold Hart clinched it in the fourth quarter by dashing 102 yards straight up the middle on a kickoff return after bobbling the ball in the end zone.

Oakland controlled the regular season Monday night football opener from the beginning, breaking Miami's 31-game home winning streak. The win also broke a string of five straight opening game losses for the Raiders who showed they deserved their American Conference favorite's role.

In addition to the scores by Banaszak, a former U. of Miami running back, and Hart's clincher, Oakland scored on a one-yard burst by Mark van Eeghen, a second year running back from Colgate, and a 25-yard field goal by George Blanda.

Miami fought back with a four-yard scoring sweep by Mercury Morris in the second quarter, opened the fourth quarter with a one-yard touchdown over right guard by Norm Bulaich and closed to the 31-21 final score on a two-yard leap by Morris.

Oakland grabbed control of the game early in the first quarter when defensive end Tony Cline jumped on a fumble by the Dolphins' Don Nottingham on the Miami 38 in the first series of downs.

The Raiders drove the 38 yards on Ken Stabler's passing and Banaszak's running. The key play was a 15-yard strike over the middle from Stabler to Cliff Branch and a third and 14 situation.

Two plays later, Stabler threw a 12-yarder to tight end Bob Moore on the Dolphin five, Banaszak crashed for three and then dived in for the score.

The Raiders second quarter drive covered 61 yards in 10 plays with Stabler hitting his backs and tight ends under the Miami zone.

He hit Hubbard at the 16 on a third and three situation and hurled strikes of nine and eight yards to Banaszak and 16 to tight end Dave Casper on the drive.

Later in the second quarter the Raiders started moving again but were slowed by a 10-yard holding penalty which forced Blanda's 25-yard field goal.

After the Dolphins had closed to 17-7, van Eeghen scored on the end of a 63-yard drive featuring a 15-yard screen pass from quarterback Stabler to Hart and another screen to Jess Phillips good for 22 yards. Van Eeghen also contributed a 22-yard sprint up the middle.

Miami did not penetrate Oakland territory until their 74-yard scoring drive capped by Morris' four-yard run with 1:48 to go in the second quarter. The play that finally got the Dolphins going was a 32-yard pass down the left sidelines from Bob Greise to Howard Twilley.

Pirates capture
N.L. East crown

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates, with Richie Zisk and Dave Parker each knocking in four runs and Willie Stargell scoring four times, clinched their fifth National League East title in six years Monday night with a 11-3 victory over the second-place Philadelphia Phillies.

The only year in the past six the Pirates did not win the divisional crown was 1973.

The Pirates put the game away with two big innings—scoring three runs in the fifth and five runs in the eighth.

Al Oliver triggered the fourth inning rally with a double off losing pitcher Tom Underwood, 14-13, and came in on Stargell's single. Zisk then doubled to score Stargell and came around on Parker's single.

Manny Sanguillen drew a two-out walk to ignite the five-run eighth and took third on an Oliver single. Stargell doubled to score one run and Zisk singled in two more. Miguel Dilone came in to run for Zisk and Parker followed with a two-run homer, his 25th of the season, to give him 101 RBI for the year.

The Pirates took a 1-0 lead in the second when Willie Stargell walked, took second on a ground out and scored on Richie Hebner's two-out single. Run-scoring singles by Zisk and Parker produced two more runs in the seventh.

Winning pitcher Bruce Kison, 12-11, checked the Phillies on one run through the first five innings before rookie reliever Kent Tekulve came on with two runners on base and none out in the sixth, getting Dick Allen to hit into a double play and striking out Mike Schmidt.

Expos, Cards split

MONTREAL (UPI) — Jim Cox drove in three runs as he led the Montreal Expos to an 8-5 victory over St. Louis Monday night after the Cardinals won the first game 6-4 on Ted Simmons' two-run homer in the 12th inning.

In the nightcap, Cox' bases-filled double highlighted a three-run first inning for the Expos. Montreal took a 1-0 lead when Jose Morales grounded out with the bases filled scoring Jim Dwyer who had singled. Cox' single scored Larry Bittner and Gary Carter.

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Oscar Gamble's two-run pinch single with one out in the ninth inning Monday gave the Cleveland Indians a 7-6 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

After George Scott's 33rd homer, his second of the game, and Cliff Johnson a two-run homer accounting for all of Houston's runs Monday night and powering the Houston Astros to a 5-1 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds.

Cedeno lined his 13th homer of the season with none out in the first inning off loser Jack Billingham.

The Indians, aided by sixth-inning back to back homers by Charlie Spikes and George Hendrick, took a 5-2 lead into the eighth before the Brewers rallied for three runs. Back to back doubles by Robin Yount and Scott chased Cleveland starter Jim Bibby and Jim Strickland took over. Don Money's pinch single scored Scott and Bill Sharp singled home pinch runner Bobby Whitwell to chase Busky.

Little Cavaliers lose two; junior pee wees score win

EAST STROUDSBURG — The junior pee wees were picked up the only victory of the day Sunday as East Stroudsburg's Little Cavaliers lost two of three midget football games to the Nazareth Clippers.

The only score of the game in the junior pee wees' 6-0 victory came on a two-yard run by Bill Herbst in the fourth quarter.

The pee wees lost their third straight in an 18-0 setback and the midgets fell, 32-0.

Nazareth scored all its points in the second half of the pee wee game and Nazareth rolled to its victory in the midget game with the help of a touchdown on a blocked East Stroudsburg punt and a safety on another bad snap on a punt.

Mike Sweet assisted on all three scores and added the fourth goal for North Warren.

Red Sox trip Yankees, boost lead

NEW YORK (UPI) — Denny Doyle hit three singles to drive in three runs and Fred Lynn drove in another pair Monday night to give the Boston Red Sox a 6-4 victory over the New York Yankees.

The victory increased the Red Sox' lead over the idle Baltimore Orioles to four games and reduced their magic number to four for clinching the AL East crown.

The Yankees touched winner Rick Wise, 19-11, for two unearned runs in the first inning on Thurman Munson's 12th homer with Sandy Alomar on base on shortstop Rick Burleson's error and almost pulled out the game in the ninth inning when they scored one run before Dick Drago retired the side for his 15th save.

The Red Sox got one back in the second when Carlton Fisk singled, went to second as Deron Johnson walked, and moved around on fly balls by Rico Petrocelli and Lynn.

The Sox rallied for three runs in the sixth. With one out, the newly acquired Johnson and Petrocelli singled off southpaw

Ron Guidry, making his first major league start. Lynn followed with a double, scoring Johnson and sending Petrocelli to third to chase Guidry. Reliever Dave Pagan came on and got Burleson to ground out with Petrocelli being thrown out at the plate. Tippy Martinez entered and wild pitched both runners ahead. Doyle's ground-er took a hop over first base and scored on Rojas' sacrifice fly.

The Sox added another run in the eighth on Lynn's single, an infield out and Doyle's single and capped their scoring in the ninth on consecutive singles by Carl Yastrzemski, Fisk and Johnson.

Lynn's double in the sixth broke the record for doubles by a rookie in one season. It was his 46th, topping the 45 hit by Ray Johnson in 1929 and Hal Trosky in 1934.

Royals, 2-1

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Pinch-hitter Cookie Rojas drove in the tie-breaking run with a sacrifice fly in the eighth inning Monday night, lifting the Kansas City Royals to a 2-1 victory over the Texas Rangers.

Al Fitzmorris scattered eight hits in going the distance for Kansas City to win his 16th game in 27 decisions.

Tony Solaita cracked a one-out run-scoring double to tie the game in the eighth and pinch-runner Jim Wohlford moved to third on a single by Al Cowens and scored on Rojas' sacrifice fly.

Stem, Rodenberger, Whittington key players

Warrior pass defense again strong

EAST STROUDSBURG — Two years ago, East Stroudsburg State College led the nation in pass defense. Through the first two games, the Warriors look like they might be headed in the same direction this season.

The ESSC secondary of half-backs Willard Stem and Andy Whittington and safety Rich Rodenberger helped by the line-backer corps has been a key reason for the team's 2-0 start.

The Warriors have six interceptions in the two games. Three of them broke up opposition drives within the ESSC ten-yard line.

Rodenberger provided the spark in last Saturday's 14-3 victory over Montclair State. He had an interception, striped a potential receiver of the ball on a pass in the endzone and was a defensive leader with 11 tackles and two assists.

"We put Rich in a defense where we knew if we were going to win the game, he had to have a lot of tackles and that's what happened," said ESSC Coach Denny Douds.

"He did have the tackles but in addition, he gave us those game-breaker plays which serve as an inspiration to the entire squad," he added.

A junior, Rodenberger is starting at safety for the second year. He replaced Bill Navarre, who was chosen as the outstanding player on the 6-1-1 team in 1973.

"Rich attacks the ball. Although he is not blazing fast, he has long strides and excellent range and he can really accelerate," said Eli Smith, ESSC defensive backfield coach.

The 6-0, 180-pound safety from East Greenville was tops on the team in interceptions last season with six and also the number one defensive back with 39 tackles and 29 assists.

Stem is the veteran of the ESSC team, starting for the fourth straight year. He was a member of the NCAA leading 1973 pass defense, along with Navarre and John Novak.

Watson Evergreen club champ

ANALOMINK — John Watson is the new club champion at Evergreen Park Golf Course.

Watson defeated Paul Schafer, 2 and 1, Sunday to capture the club title.

In the first flight final, Homer Hennings defeated Glen Edinger, 3 and 2, to capture that flight's title.

Willard Stem

Rich Rodenberger

Andy Whittington

which allowed only 37.5 yards passing per game.

A 6-1, 185-pound senior originally from Easton, Stem is considered a prime candidate for the All-Pennsylvania Conference team.

"Willard is a riverboat gambler type. He takes chances, but with his experience they are calculated chances. He loves to play and he frankly dares the other team to throw in his area," Smith said.

The other halfback is Andy Whittington, who saw some starting action last season but is now a fulltime starter. He returned an interception 68 yards for a touchdown against Slippery Rock last season.

One of the team's most improved players, the 5-9, 167-pound junior from Philadelphia has gained confidence in his own abilities and now takes charge on the field.

"Andy has to be the team's surest tackler. When he hits somebody they go down," Smith commented. "Against Montclair, he hit a guy near the sidelines and I thought he was going to go right through him."

Pass defense also is the responsibility of the linebackers and Doug Sheaffer had his second interception of the season against Montclair State. The ball was actually tipped by two of his teammates before it fell into Sheaffer's arms.

"There were six people around the football. When you are doing that on defense, you're going to be successful," Douds said.

The ESSC secondary will face what always is one of its toughest tests when the Warriors take on West Chester at 8 p.m. at the Stroudsburg High School Stadium.

"West Chester always has a good offense and a sound passing attack with many formations we are not accustomed to seeing, but we'll be ready for them," Smith added.

Potential hunters advised of rules

Deer license applications accepted Sept. 29

HARRISBURG — Antlerless deer license applications will be accepted from Pennsylvania resident hunters beginning on Sept. 29, under rules and regulations adopted by the Game Commission.

Under the Game Law, county treasurers are designated as the issuing agents for antlerless licenses. The Game Law provides that antlerless deer licenses "shall be issued without restriction or regard to the county residence of the Pennsylvania applicant."

Basically, guidelines established last year for receiving applications and for issuing antlerless deer licenses will be followed in 1975.

The Game Commission's rules and regulations on the issuance of antlerless deer licenses follow:

1. Only the original antlerless deer license application form issued as a part of the hunter's license shall be valid for making application for an

Mounties gain 2-0 victory

STROUDSBURG — Cindy Reaser and Cindy Huber each scored one goal Monday to give Stroudsburg a 2-0 victory over Wilson in a girls' field hockey contest.

Reaser's goal came first and then Huber was credited with the second goal after a shot deflected off a Wilson fullback and into the goal.

Wilson scored a 1-0 triumph over the Mounties in the junior varsity game on a goal by Sherre Hoyer.

But proposed boosts bring disgruntled response

Owners present new NFL offer

CHICAGO (UPI) — Improvements in pensions, salary minimums, life and medical insurance and changes in the controversial option rule were offered to the National Football League Players Association Monday and drew an immediate disgruntled response from association president Kermit Alexander.

"We got a proposal from management," he said. "We're going to meet with our player reps. There won't be any definitive statement released until we've had a chance to meet and discuss this."

"The obvious problem that we have is that it's been disseminated to all the players as well as the media so the most optimistic thing I can say is that it frustrates bargaining."

Player representatives met for more than an hour and then recessed "for a sandwich," planning to resume their meeting possibly with Federal Conciliator W. J. Usery before considering rejoining negotiations with management personnel.

NFLPA Executive Director Ed Garvey attended all meetings involving the players and said. "We're trying to find out where we're going and how to get there. We don't know what our future course is; we're trying to decide."

Proponent of bill terms opposition 'chutzpah'

NFL blackout opposition blasted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The author of a bill to impose a permanent television anti-blackout ban on professional sports asserted Monday that the opposition of the National Football League to allowing the home area showing of sold-out games is "chutzpah (nerve)" at its highest.

Rep. Torbert MacDonald, D-Mass., sponsor of the legislation and chairman of a House Commerce subcommittee holding hearings on the measure, criticized the NFL stand as two lead-off witnesses urged that the three-year-old blackout ban be continued indefinitely.

His proposal was endorsed by Richard E. Wiley, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, and John A. Schneider, president of CBS Broadcast Group.

The former Harvard football captain noted during Wiley's appearance that the new Seattle expansion team has sold out its stadium completely for next year "even without knowing who the coach or the players will be."

"I think they're crying wolf with frivolous claims of no-shows," he said of pro football's complaints that because of home game television a growing number of ticket buyers are failing to turn up at the stadiums.

Pointing out that NFL teams have been paid for the tickets by stay-at-home customers and make no refunds, MacDonald declared: "I don't see what business it is of the football owner what he (the customer) does with his ticket...whether he eats it, gives it away or sells it. He's paid for it and they're sold out."

The law requiring a team to allow home game television only applies if the full seating capacity of the stadium is sold out 72 hours in advance of kickoff.

"I'm not going to shed tears for the NFL," the congressman observed.

The change in the option rule, one of the major points drawing criticism from the players, would prohibit any player with four years of experience from being awarded to another club by Commissioner Pete Rozelle under the so-called Rozelle rule. The rule provides that a team be compensated for losing a player who has played out his option and who signs with another club.

The Rozelle rule has been a major objection by the players in contract negotiations. Another change the owners offered would allow a player with four-years experience to be exempt from the option clause when he signs a contract for three or more years.

The owners offered to guarantee all pensions and provided that any player with four years of experience — with a year of experience credited for every season in which he plays three or more games —would be eligible for a pension at the age of 55 or older.

The pensions would begin at $18,000 for players with four seasons and range up to $51,000 for 20-years experience at age 65, and from $6,900 for players with four seasons up to $19,803 for a player with 20 seasons at age 55.

Life insurance benefits were increased to $30,000 minimum and a $50,000 maximum and major medical insurance benefits were boosted from $50,000 to $250,000.

Minimum salaries would be established at $15,000 for rookies and $18,000 for veterans, increasing to $21,000 for veterans in 1978. In addition, there would be a weekly minimum during the seven-week preseason of $200 for rookies up to $1,000 or more for five-year players in 1978.

Higher guarantees of payments for participation in playoff games also were specified with the Super Bowl champion guaranteed $31,500 per man.

The proposal also specified for shorter training camps with no more than 15 days prior to the first exhibition game except for quarterbacks and players being rehabilitated from injuries.

Players also would be exempt from discipline because of personal appearance including length of hair, facial hair and dress and would be guaranteed a minimum of four days off per month during the regular season.

Under a previously agreed time table, whatever changes might be agreed upon in the contract proposal, must be submitted to the players for a vote by Thursday and their votes must be returned by next Tuesday.

Wiley, whose agency has administered the statute for the past three seasons, testified: "I would like to state at the outset that the commission supports this legislation."

Schneider told the House group that when the temporary legislation was enacted in 1973, CBS felt "the public interest would best be served" by ending the NFL's long-standing policy against televising home contests whatever the attendance. "Nothing since that time has given CBS any reason to change our position," he testified.

ESSC women netters open first complete fall season

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg State College will open its first complete fall season of women's tennis today in a 3 p.m. home match against arch-rival West Chester.

Women's tennis has gone to a full fall schedule of 11 matches this year with the spring program eliminated.

Coach Barbara Wilke indicated that the reason for the change is that weather conditions in the Poconos are better for tennis in the fall than in April and early May.

Prospects are bright for the ESSC team with four letter-winners returning from the 1974-75 squad which posted a 7-3 record, best at the school in many years.

Back are senior Maryann Westley (Broomall), juniors Debbie Harnden (Hershey) and Marj Haan (Reading) and sophomore Lisa Levine (Cranford, N.J.). Also on hand are two former players, senior Kathy Zeamer (Columbia) and junior Molly O'Brien (Millersville), who missed last season because of injuries.

Wilkes indicated that the team should be strongest in doubles with a pair of veteran teams in Westley and Zeamer at one position and Levine and Haan at the other.

Harnden is set as the team's number one singles player and has looked strong in practice, according to Wilke. The other two singles positions will be alternated among O'Brien and sophomores Lynn Graver (Philadelphia) and Wendy Karnow (Westport, N.Y.)

Also contending for spots on the varsity and junior varsity will be singles players Debbie Kropinicki (soph, Clark, N.J.), Kathy Nespoli (soph, Berwick), Pam Singiser (jr, Shippenburg) and Meg Weir (soph, Bryn Mawr).

Other doubles teams include Diane Rabold (soph, Boyertown) and Denise Ward (soph, Yardley) and Denise Graybill (fr, Denver) and Betty Rosko (jr, Sciota). West Chester and the University of Penn are the toughest opponents on the schedule which also includes Rutgers, Trenton State, Temple, Bucknell, Kean, Lehman, Franklin and Marshall, William Paterson and Villanova.

The Warriors will enter a team in the Eastern Intercollegiate Women's Tennis Championships Oct. 3-5 at New Paltz, N.Y. State College.

The schedule: Sept. 23, West Chester, home; 25, Temple, away; Oct. 1, Bucknell, away; 2, Franklin and Marshall, home; 3-4-5, Eastern Intercollegiate at New Paltz, N.Y.; 7, Kean, away; 11, Rutgers, home; 14, Lehman, home; 16, Trenton State, home; 21, Penn, home; 22, Villanova, away; 28, William Paterson, away.

Petty's 11th victory adds to impressive point lead

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Richard Petty, fresh from his 11th victory of the season Sunday in the Wilkes 400, seems to be unstoppable in his run for an unprecedented sixth Grand National stock car title, the National Association of Stock Car Racing (NASCAR) said Monday.

Petty's win at North Wilkesboro, N.C., pushed his career Winston Cup victory total to 175. The Randleman, N.C. Dodge driver holds the overall (3,879) and third-leg (550) Winston Cup point leads and also is the No. 1 money-winner this season with $262,855 after 23 events.

Bruce Hill, the 25-year-old Topeka, Kan., newcomer was only one point behind Petty in the third-leg standings with 449 points. Hill, who has a firm grip on the point lead for the $10,000 Carling Grand National Rookie-of-the-Year Award, has finished fifth, fifth and tenth in his last three races.

Following Petty in the overall Cup competition are Dave Marcis (3,017); James Hylton (2,989); Benny Parsons (2,953); Richard Childress (2,931); Cecil Gordon (2,790); Darrell Waltrip (2,782); Elmo Langley (2,570); Buddy Baker (2,411); and David Sisco (2,401).

Behind Petty and Hill in the final leg of Winston competition are Cale Yarborough (446), who finished second in Sunday's 400-lap race; Childress (438); Parsons (428); Richard Brooks (390); Sisco (388); Hylton (364); Lennie Pond (363); and J.D. McDuffie (352).

In the Rookie-of-the-Year standings Hill leads with 344 points, followed by Carl Adams, of San Diego, Calif., (305); and Bruce Jacobi, of Indianapolis, Ind. (229).

Next stop on the Winston Cup schedule is the Old Dominion 500 next Sunday at Martinsville, Va., Speedway.

American women favored to win basketball crown

ALAMOSA, Colo. (UPI) — If a combination of experienced international style players and scoring flexibility means anything, Cathy Rush says the U.S. women's basketball team will storm the World Championships in Cali, Colombia.

"I'm very optimistic about our chances. The girls are at their peak and we have come together as a team," said Mrs. Rush, who has coached Pennsylvania's Immaculata College to three national championships.

After a month's intensive practice at Adams State College, where the 6,200-ft. altitude matches that of Mexico City, Mrs. Rush's team headed for the championships scheduled Monday through Oct. 4. The team then enters the Pan American Games Oct. 12-26 in Mexico City.

"We're not expected to do well by other teams because the U.S. women's teams have never done well, but I think we'll surprise them this year," the coach said.

The major reason for Mrs. Rush's hopes are Carolyn Bush, a 6-2 forward and graduate of Wayland Baptist College; Carolyn's fellow alumnus and 5-11 forward Cherri Rapp, and 5-6 guard Julienne Simpson, a John F. Kennedy graduate.

"The three have been leading during practices and I expect about 45 points from them each game," she said. "And that's one of our strengths—their combined ability to come through on scoring instead of having one girl who is a star."

Since practice began, Mrs. Rush said there have been a few "star" problems with players who could not adapt to her coaching or the international-fast running style of play.

But most of the problems are over, Mrs. Rush said, and the team, ranging in age from Nancy Lieberman, 17, to Miss Rapp, 25, is working well as a unit.

Mrs. Rush said the U.S. team

Champion pulls toy pistol on challenger

Ali's 'gun trick' bothers Frazier

MANILA (UPI) — Muhammad Ali thought it a good joke, a good bit of preflight publicity. Joe Frazier thought otherwise.

"I don't like it," said Frazier Monday of Sunday's incident when Ali pulled an unloaded gun, pointed it at Frazier, and squeezed the trigger.

That the gun was a plastic toy mattered little to the challenger. "I thought about it all night. I didn't like it."

"It was just a gimmick," said Bala Chandran, Ali's personal Malaysian valet who is looking after the champion's needs.

Local police were not amused, either.

Fernando Eusebio, a detective assigned to the Investigation Department of the city police, said no report had been received of the incident. "Until a report is filed, there can be no investigation."

But the authorities are sensitive about hand guns, toys or otherwise. Three years ago when martial law was declared in the Philippines following civil disobedience, the military confiscated over 600,000 weapons.

The incident probably will be forgotten, written off as another of Ali's publicity stunts, but Frazier was not amused.

Frazier told newsmen Ali probably acted the way he did because he's worried.

"I know that all around his room he thinks of Joe Frazier, smokin' Joe Frazier, and this bothers him. That's why he comes peepin' around and snappin' pistols and things like that."

Describing the incident, Frazier said, "He snapped it (the pistol) four or five times at the balcony where I was. I didn't like it. A lot of bad things can go wrong. You don't play with guns."

On Sunday, Ali crashed Frazier's workout and hurled a chair into the ring, then led police on a mock chase on a suspended catwalk.

This incident did not bother Frazier.

Frazier, 31, took the day off Monday. "I'm already sharp and strong. You need an occasional rest to charge up your batteries."

"The man's afraid. He's not sure of himself, that's why he's been watchin' and spyin' on me for three days."

The 33-year-old champion, meanwhile, announced his latest retirement plans.

Ali said he would have one more fight after his Oct. 1 rubber match with Frazier and then start fulltime missionary work for the Black Muslims.

"I'm announcing it today that I want one more fight after this and I'm gonna retire," Ali said. "I want to be the first black to get out well off, wealthy and intelligent."

What about Ken Norton and George Foreman?

"I can't take too long. Norton must prove his worth as a true challenger by first beating Foreman."

"Let them beat each other," he said. "I don't want to fight both of them."

Ali said his future plans included 20 television specials, merchandizing promotions worth about $30 million and a $2 billion foreign trade arrangement with several African countries to market fertilizer, rice and wheat.

The proceeds from all his earnings would go to charitable projects for poor American blacks, he said.

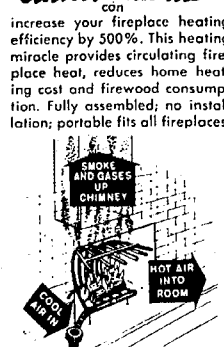

Ali said his last fight would net between $3 and $4 million after taxes. He said he had received offers from the Shah of Iran and from promoters in Tripoli, Libya and Riyadh, Saudi Arabia—all oil-rich countries.

Ali boxed six rounds Monday with sparring partner Hartmut Sasse of West Germany and Americans Levi Forte, Dean Wells and Rodney Bobick.

What makes Toyota the small car specialist?

The largest roster of small cars and trucks you'll find under one dealer's roof (2-doors, 4-doors, wagons, pickups, 4-wheel drives and 5-speeds).

And each has a character all its own. With special features you don't find standard on most cars, small or otherwise. Like the 5-speed transmission on the Corolla S-5 and SR-5, Corona SR and Celica GT. Or the extra-long bed on one of the half-ton pickup trucks. Or fully reclining bucket seats on all car models. Or the 6-cylinder engine on the Mark II. Or roll bars and skid plates on the Land Cruiser. There's even an Electro Sensor Panel (ESP) on the Corona hardtops that constantly monitors eleven key systems of your car to help take some of the worry out of driving.

When it comes to testing, prototypes of every single model go through extensive mechanical, design and safety checks before they ever go into production.

And when it comes to service, Import Auto stands behind every Toyota sold.

Oh, yes, there's one thing more than makes us small car specialists. Forty years' experience making small cars.

THE TIME HAS COME TO PUT PRICE & PRIDE TOGETHER AGAIN.

A&P has always stood for two things:

Price & Pride.

Price & Pride together made the great A&P great.

Then, somehow, we let Price & Pride get out of balance.

We forgot our own philosophy:

Price without Pride is no bargain.

And we suffered for it.

The time has come to put
Price & Pride together again.

And we're going to do it.

If we can't do it,
nobody can.
